Check on Plan For Jobs Aid

Study be Made To See if a Vast Recovery Program Need

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—The administration launched its regional business-jobs aid plan today. President Truman was reported meanwhile as determined to wait another six months to see whether the economy gets better or worse—and then see what's needed.

For the time being, Mr. Truman plans to pin-point federal spending in areas hardest hit by unemployment and business decline.

In that connection Secretary of Commerce Sawyer went to Boston to confer with the New England states to get the economic picture in that area.

At the same time, Undersecretary of Commerce Cornelius Vandebilt Whitney and Assistant Secretary Thomas C. Blaisdell journeyed to Louisville and Atlanta to meet with business groups.

Other commerce department officials were to go later in the week to the mid-west, and to other sections, to get on-the-spot data of economic sore spots.

New Appraisal Ahead

Meanwhile a top government official specializing in administration economic policy said President Truman has set a deadline of January for a new appraisal of the nation's economy.

If it gets worse by then, this official said, the president will come forward with a new deal-like pump-priming plan designed to reinvigorate the country.

"If there is no upturn this fall, or no evidence of a steady-going which will lead to an upturn later, Mr. Truman will feel that he must be decisive," this official said. He asked not to be quoted by name.

Confidence in the nation's basic economic health was expressed last night by three speakers on the University of Chicago radio round table. They were Secretary Sawyer, Vice President Theodore Yntema of the Ford Motor Co., and Senator Douglas (D-Ill.).

Yntema expressed a view that it is "practically impossible to have in the next year or two a collapse like that of 1930-32." He joined with Sawyer and Douglas in discounting the possibility of a further sharp business decline.

The official who reported President Truman's decision to wait six months before deciding on any more drastic economic aids said there are many factors which will help determine the future trend.

He mentioned fourth round postwar wage negotiations, prospects of bumper harvests, a possible fall season upsurge in production and Christmas retail buying as influences.

Indicated Heat Wave To Linger Longer

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—The news from the weather bureau is mostly bad. The heat over most of the nation hasn't budged.

The mercury was doing another fast run-up today all the way from the Rocky Mountains eastward to the Atlantic seaboard. And to make it more uncomfortable, the humidity was getting in a good lick.

Just another sweltering day was in prospect with temperatures ranging up to the middle 90's throughout the plains states and into the lower 90's elsewhere.

Thought for Today

Now, the whole world hears Or shall hear—surely shall hear—at the last.

Find Treasure In Jewels in a Dirty Napkin

MARGATE, Eng., July 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Franke Macke, cleaning her attic found a dirty napkin pinned together in the drawer of an old chest.

She undid it and out rolled £5,000 ($20,000) worth of rings, brooches and bracelets set with rubies, emeralds and diamonds.

Her husband decided it must be the loot from a 1937 jewel robbery at the Queen's Hotel, where he was night porter. He was given the chest after the hotel closed in 1939 but had never thought to look inside.

Macke turned the jewelry over to police.

Fatal Shock To Child Year Old Sunday

Richard Lee Brown Contacts Hinge On Refrigerator

Richard Lee Brown, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil J. Brown, 2200 South Marvin avenue, received a fatal electrical shock Sunday evening about 6:30 o'clock, while playing in the kitchen.

He was knocked unconscious for about five or six minutes and died while being rushed to the Bothwell hospital in the family automobile.

Mr. Brown said he believed his son was killed when he held on to a gas stove drawer and backed into a refrigerator and came in contact with a chrome hinge on the refrigerator door which was not insulated.

Backed Into Refrigerator

The boy delighted in playing with pots and pans from the stove drawer and he was doing this while his mother was washing dinner dishes, shortly before he backed into the refrigerator. He took his first steps that day at the age of one year, eleven days.

Mr. Brown, who was area supervisor for the Missouri division of employment security since February of 1947, took over state supervision duties in May, 1949, and recently took over the managerial duties in Sedalia to be with his family.

The family lived in Kansas City for five years where he was with the employment division there. They have been living in Sedalia since 1948, coming from St. Joseph, Mo.

Survivors include his parents, and three brothers, Willis 12, Tommy 11 and Bobby 5.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the McLaughlin funeral chapel with Rev. H. U. Campbell to officiate. Neil Powers will be the soloist.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park cemetery.

Deny Dismissal In Rate Case

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25.—(AP)—Kansas City failed today to get dismissal of Southwestern Bell's request for $5,000,000 higher telephone rates.

Opening a hearing on the new rate case, the Missouri Public Service Commission overruled a motion by Jerome of Kansas City to dismiss the application.

Joffe, Kansas City's utilities attorney, argued the company's effort to get $5,000,000 more a year was based on the same claim of emergency need as a previous $5,700,000 request which was rejected by the commission last month.

In ruling on that request, he said, the PSC in effect had barred the company's new application.

Commissioner Charles L. Hendon disagreed. He said the PSC understood Bell was seeking a fair rate of return on its investment, not of emergency revenue. Joffe said Kansas City is especially interested because the proposed higher rates would cost Kansas City telephone users about $2,000,000 a year.

As the hearing opened, John Mohler of St. Louis, Southwestern Bell's attorney, estimated the company would need about six days to present its evidence.

Cardinals-Braves Battle to Tie

BROOKLYN, July 25.—(AP)—Brooklyn and St. Louis, battling for the National League lead, played a 4-4 tie game today when the contest was called by agreement at the end of the ninth inning to permit both clubs to make train connections to the west. St. Louis 100 003 000—4 7 1 Brooklyn 002 101 000—4 6 0 Lanier, Wilks (5) Brazle (7) Martin (9) and Garagiola, Rice (7); Branca, Palica (5) Roe (7) and Campanella. HHR: Bkn Hermanski.

Court Makes Ruling Against Rent Control

Appeal Will be Taken From That Of Federal Judge

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—Federal district Judge Elwyn R. Shaw today held the entire 1949 rent control law unconstitutional.

However, his ruling does not mean that all rent controls are now off.

A government attorney said an immediate appeal will be made to the U. S. supreme court.

William S. Kaplan, chief Chicago attorney for the housing expediter, said the law will be "administered and enforced" pending appeal.

Says Powers Invalidated

Judge Shaw held that in inserting a local option clause in the act, Congress had abrogated its wartime powers.

He said the whole law is invalidated by a clause permitting states and other governmental divisions to end controls in their territories by local option.

Judge Shaw held this provision was an unlawful delegation by Congress of its powers to other government agencies.

The opinion was issued in an action by Tighe E. Woods, housing expediter. He sought an injunction to restrain the Shoreline Cooperative, Inc., 223 East 67th street, Chicago, from evicting 18 tenants. The judge dismissed the petition.

In his written opinion, Judge Shaw said Congress should have merely set a new expiration date if it wished to continue the old rent control act in force.

John P. Lulinski, assistant U. S. attorney, said an immediate appeal of Judge Shaw's ruling will be taken to the supreme court.

Father And Son Pilot Are Killed

SULLIVAN, Mo., July 25.—(AP)—A young pilot and his father were killed when their light plane crashed eight miles southeast of here Saturday night.

The pilot, Orville L. Gargus, Jr., had received his pilot's license at the Sullivan airport shortly before the crash occurred.

He and his father, Orville Gargus, Sr., 53, were taken from the plane before it burned. The plane crashed in the garden of young Gargus' aunt, Mrs. Earl Gargus at Pea Ridge community.

British Not Now Seeking Dollar Loan

LONDON, July 25.—(AP)—The British government is not at this time seeking a United States dollar loan, treasury sources said today.

A treasury spokesman said officially there is "no comment on a report by Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) that Washington was talking about a new loan of eight to 12 billion dollars.

Sedalia Boys Tell Rotary Of Boys' State at Kemper

Three Sedalia boys who attended Boys' State held recently at Kemper academy in Boonville, were speakers at the noon meeting today of the Rotary club at Bothwell hotel. The boys were Robert Monsees, sponsored by Rotary; Robert Van Horn, sponsored by the American Legion and Cecil Lujin, sponsored by the Lions club. Each boy made a ten minute report on his experiences at Boys' State.

The meeting was presided over by Oscar DeWolf, president, and invocation was by the Rev. T. W. Croxton, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The song leader was Lawrence Barnett and C. F. Scotten, program chairman, introduced the speakers.

Visitors introduced by D. W. Heckart were Rotarians D. E. Cline, Osawatimie, Kas., Rev. Leslie Bowers, Dawson Springs, Ky.

Visited Other Clubs

Sedalia Rotarians who visited other clubs the past week were:

Milton Hinlein, Philadelphia; Stansel DeFoe, Camden; Frank Bryant, Colorado Springs; Nolan Bricken, Warrensburg and Otis Wiley, Kansas City.

An announcement was made that a club assembly would be held Monday evening, August 1, at 7:30 o'clock at the Elks club.

It was also announced that a meeting of the Community Service committee chairmen would meet at the home of G. H. Routsong, 1216 West Fourth street, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening to consider objects and plans for the coming Rotary year.

Al Fabry announced that the Rotary sponsored golf tournament of which he is chairman, played an 18 hole tournament on the Elm Tree Golf Course the week of July 16 and 17 between Kiwanis, Rotary, Optimist and Lions. Thirty-one played in the tournament and the Lions won. The scores were: Rotary, 77; Optimist, 76.8; Kiwanis, 76.5; and Lions, 75.1. The trophy cup will be presented as soon as received.

Draw Close To Changsha

Americans Are Injured in Storm At Okinawa

By the Associated Press
Chinese Communists drove closer today to Changsha, 400 miles north of the provisional Nationalist capital of Canton.

The advance threatened to sweep the Nationalists from Hunan province. The Nationalists realized only too well that the loss of Hunan would doom South China.

Private reports placed the Reds at points five miles east of Changsha and 10 miles east of Chuchow. Government sources conceded the capture by the Communists of Yungan, 18 miles east of Changsha.

Meanwhile the official Central Daily News of Canton came out against the prospective release by the U. S. state department of a "White Paper" on China. It said such an action would give moral support to the Chinese Communists and impair Chinese-American friendship.

The newspaper said the state department "wants to convince Congress" that further aid to Nationalist China would be of no avail.

Informed sources in Canton said the Nationalists are getting ready to purge "bad elements" within the Kuomintang (Nationalist party). Among the names mentioned for possible expulsion: T. V. Soong and H. H. Kung, both brothers-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and both now

Atlantic Pact Signed Today

President Calls It "Historic Step Toward Peace"

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—President Truman signed the historic North Atlantic treaty today and immediately asked Congress to back it up with a $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program.

The chief executive said the newly ratified military alliance—as well as other nations around the globe—must have American help to build up their defense against the threat of Russian aggression.

Barely an hour before he sent a special message to the lawmakers pleading for swift approval of his program to meet "the most pressing current needs," Mr. Truman penned his signature to the ratification instrument of the Atlantic pact.

He called the treaty—ratified only last Thursday by an 82 to 13 Senate vote—"a historic step toward a world peace, a free world free from fear."

"But it is only one step," he said in a statement issued at the White House signing ceremony.

"We must keep ourselves morally and materially strong. We must play our part in helping to strengthen freedom everywhere."

That was the theme of his arms message to Congress.

By stressing what he called "the most pressing current needs," Mr. Truman obviously was hoping to

Truman Calls For $1,450,000,000 To Go For Foreign Arms

Plan For Use Of Huge Aid Funds on Arms in Program

Important Events In World News

CAIRO, July 25.—(AP)—The Egyptian cabinet of Premier Ibrahim Abdell Hadi Pasha resigned today.

(This dispatch gave no clear indication as to why the government resigned. Egypt still exercised censorship over both outgoing and incoming cables.)

A reliable source said King Farouk would ask Hussein Sirry Pasha, who was premier in the early years of World War II, to form a new government combining the the government Saadist party and the opposition Wafdist party, which has been out of power since 1944.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 25.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist premier said yesterday that if forced to choose between Catholicism or Communism, the country's answer would be: "Moscow, Stalin, Socialism."

Premier Antonin Zapotocky, speaking to 12,000 union members in Trutnov — formerly a part of the Sudetan German region — declared:

"If the pope today excommunicated all Communists and with them all the co-operating, believing Christians, then we would be aware of the fact that he is excommunicating nearly all the entire Czechoslovak working people."

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark) today challenged critics today to prove there are "any flaws" in his plan to earmark about $1,500,000,000 of foreign-aid funds for buying surplus farm products in this country.

"They can't pick any flaws in it," McClellan told a reporter as Senate leaders opened a drive to knock it out of the $5,723,724,000 foreign aid bill. These leaders and foreign aid officials say they see a serious threat to the flexibility of the aid efforts.

The department summed up the reasons behind the administration's action in these words: "The political aggression and expansionist aims of the Soviet Union, abetted by the malignant growth of international Communism, have bred a new fear and insecurity in the world."

Nowhere in thousands of words of explanatory and background material on the arms program, did the State Department enter directly into the argument over what further steps this country pledged itself to in joining the North Atlantic treaty.

It did say, however, that "helping free nations to acquire the means of defending themselves is an obligation of the leadership we have assumed in world affairs."

To Treaty Nations
More than $1,000,000,000 of the proposed military help would go to Atlantic treaty nations in western Europe—countries like Britain, France and Belgium. Said the State Department in a 41-page pamphlet prepared for Congress:

"Their defense is our defense and will continue to be of deep concern to us as long as their military weakness invites aggression."

The aid plan now proposed, the pamphlet said, would provide only "modestly needed" arms for western Europe and "further programs" will be necessary.

There was no estimate as to how many years these programs might have to run.

That will depend largely, the State Department said, on "the degree to which we and the nations associated with us can remove the threat of war."

After Heated Debate

Today's action was a followup to the long and bitter Senate debate over ratification of the treaty. That ratification was voted last Thursday by a lop-sided margin of 77 to 23.

Hereafter from time to time the other mystery farm pictures will appear on the Democrat-Capital farm page. Watch for them. If one of your farm pictures, come for the photograph.

Would be Used By The Friendly Nations Abroad To Bolster Defenses

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—President Truman called on Congress today to approve swiftly a $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program. He said it is needed because friendly nations in western Europe and elsewhere need to build up their defenses against the danger of Russian aggression.

The chief executive, evidently hoping to counter the demands of some Senators to trim down the most of the proposal, said his recommendations cover only "the most pressing current needs for military aid."

This aid, he said, would go mainly to eight European nations and to about half a dozen others scattered all the way from Europe to the Pacific ocean.

Desires Prompt Action
"If this program of military aid is to succeed," Mr. Truman in a special message to the lawmakers, "we prosecute it promptly and vigorously. Our policies for peace are having the desired effect. We cannot afford to lose the momentum we have already gained."

At the same instant Mr. Truman's message was being read in Congress, the State Department made public the text of an administration bill to carry out the arms program. This bill would give the chief executive great flexibility in distributing arms to other countries but would bar giving away any atomic bombs.

In an accompanying booklet, the State Department blasted Russia with even blunter words than those Mr. Truman used. The booklet said:

"The political aggression and expansionist aims of the Soviet Union, abetted by the malignant growth of international Communism, have bred a new fear and insecurity in the world."

To Oppose Communism
The president said the people of Europe particularly have watched the Communists take over one nation after another, have observed the civil war in Greece and the Soviet blockade of Berlin and have watched the pressures of Iran and Turkey.

As a result of their experience with Soviet Communism, Mr. Truman said, "they realize that they must have a shield against aggression to shelter their political institutions and the rebirth of their own economic and social life."

That shield, the president went on, does not yet exist in the United Nations. And again he blamed Russia for this situation.

"So long as the danger of aggression exists," he said, "it is necessary to think in terms of the forces required to prevent it."

"Helping free nations to acquire the means of defending themselves," Mr. Truman continued, "is an obligation of the leadership we have assumed in world affairs."

He argued further that the preparation of military means "for keeping the peace is necessary not only to the security of the United States but also to build a safe and prosperous world society."

The State Department, referring to the western European members of the new North Atlantic treaty put it in these words: "Their defense is our defense."

Mr. Truman told Congress he did not want to spell out the arms to be given each country. He asked instead for general authority to provide arms and war materials for Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg (which together form the western European Union), Norway, Denmark, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea, and the Philippines.

In addition, he said, the United States should help Canada and the other American republics in strengthening their defenses. But here, he said, it should be on a cash basis with the American government assisting them only by making available its facilities "to procure defense equipment for them at their own expense."

The president said the eight European countries already have undertaken to spend annually on their military establishments sums equivalent to $5,500,000,000. He

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri--

Whose farm is it?

Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was.

The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during their flight time.

So beginning today and about once a week hereafter, until the pictures run out, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital will print these farm home pictures as a news feature. The newspapers would like to know whose farm homes they are.

Who lives in the above pictured farm home? If the occupant will come to the news department on the second floor of the Democrat-Capital farm page. Watch for them. If one of your farm pictures, come for the photograph.

Senate Expenditures Committee Should Investigate White House Repair

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, July 25 — Of course, I don't like to write anything about General Harry Vaughan which might cause the president to call me an S.O.B. again.

Nevertheless, I do think that the Senate expenditures committee, now investigating the so-called "five per-centers" should take a careful look at something which is going on right under the president's own nose — namely, the repairing of his official abode, the White House.

Since this official abode is one which we all help to support and of which we are all proud, it would seem proper for the Senate to investigate how a friend of Gen. Harry Vaughan and of his lobbying sidekick, Col. James V. Hunt, should have been appointed to repair the White House — at a time when Hunt was trying to get a commission in connection with White House repair.

This friend is Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, retired, U. S. Army Engineers.

Gen. Edgerton has been a fine officer, and well qualified. But so also were Generals Alden Waitt and Herman Feldman, who were suspended from the army because they gave lobbyist James V. Hunt information on army contracts that the press and public couldn't get.

Officially, it is explained that General Edgerton was appointed by the White House repair commission, including Senators McKellar of Tennessee, Martin of Pennsylvania, with Representatives Raboult of Michigan and Keefe of Wisconsin.

Moreover, there are all sorts of ways to skin a cat in Washington and a Senate committee, looking beneath the surface, might unearth some interesting facts.

Decorating White House Interior

It would discover, for instance, that lobbyist Hunt has a client, Miss Dorothy Draper, who is an interior decorator desirous of getting a contract to redecorate the White House. If she gets the job, she pays a commission to Vaughan's friend, Hunt. No wonder Hunt wanted a friend in charge of White House repairs.

The Senate would also discover that Gen. Edgerton, the man now in charge of White House repairs, admits — as he did to this column — that both General Vaughan and lobbyist Hunt are his friends. He also admits that he knew about Miss Draper, the decorator.

It would also discover that both Vaughan and Hunt pulled wires on an earlier occasion to get General Edgerton appointed to the key spot of War Assets administrator. This is the job which had control over selling surplus war material and was for a long time a gravy source for lobbyists.

Vaughan and friend Hunt failed to get Gen. Edgerton appointed to this bonanza-dispensing job, but they did have another key man inside the War Assets administration — none other than one of Vaughan's and the president's old cronies from Battery D.

Inside War Assets

Their friend is Joe Major, who, incidentally, flew in the president's private airplane with Harry Vaughan and Harry Truman down to the battery's 35th reunion in Little Rock, Ark., last month.

Joe Major, when queried, was quite frank in admitting that he receives telephone calls all the time from Harry Vaughan. Major denied that Vaughan was pressuring him, but admitted that the calls came to him while in his office and while in charge of getting rid of surplus government property. Major estimated he had received about 500 phone calls from Vaughan and in addition visited Vaughan about once a week at his home.

Major was also quite frank in admitting that lobbyist Hunt had asked him to use his influence to get Gen. Edgerton appointed to the top job of dispensing surplus property.

Joe Major also knows John Maragon well. In fact, he refers to him as John.

Ex-Kansas City Bootblack

That raises another interesting chapter which the Senate could probe with profit — namely, the War Assets lobbying of Vaughan's friend Maragon, the ex-Kansas City bootblack, ex-federal narcotics agent, who poses as the great to prove it by accompanying them to the Potsdam conference along with Stalin and Churchill.

It would be important for the public to know just how much backing Maragon got from the president's military aide in his wirepulling with war assets to get some of Uncle Sam's low-priced surplus property.

Working on behalf of a mysterious Englishman named George Dawson and of a British-backed company called "Trans-America Traders, Inc." Maragon bought some government turbine generators for $30,200, some Solinium rectifiers for charging airplane batteries for $10,000 and some welding panels for $1,000. Later, Maragon claimed he got stung on the generators and tried to back out.

Maragon's group also tried to buy the Gary armor plate factory, in Gary, Ind., until the army withdrew it from the market. But the biggest trouble with Maragon came over some coal-mining machinery which war assets sold the Austrian government. Maragon wanted this machinery in the worst way and pulled various wires to get it.

He even claimed that the war assets auctioneer had signalled to the Austrians by scratching his nose in order to let them have the machinery.

Maragon is the man who lobbied for the David Bennett Perfumery company and entertained both Harry Truman and Harry Vaughan on the company's yacht. Through the reported intervention of Gen. Vaughan, lobbyist Hunt temporarily took over the Bennett company's lobbying work, though Maragon still continues with Bennett.

It would be highly interesting, however, if the Senate should investigate just how an ex-bootlegger was able to take special trips to Europe immediately after the war on perfume business, at a time when few Americans were permitted in former war theatres.

British Courts Severe in Passing on Contempt Cases

By Dewitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's sensational "Vampire" murder case, which has resulted in the sentencing of John George Haigh to the gallows, provides an excellent example of how the scales of justice are balanced in England.

After his arrest, Haigh boasted that he had killed nine persons in four years and had drunk of their blood. However, he was tried only on a charge of slaying Mrs. Olive Durant-Deacon, a wealthy widow, and dissolving her body in acid. During his detention on this charge, Scotland Yard investigated the disappearance of a half a dozen Britons believed dissolved in acid by a "Vampire" slayer. But Haigh never was charged with these other killings.

While the case was in this status the London Daily Mirror, which claims the world circulation record for any daily (4,000,000), was brought into court on a charge of publishing an article calling Haigh a vampire and saying he had committed several murders. English law prohibits publication of any information which might prejudice the trial of a defendant, and the Mirror was found guilty. The paper was fined $40,000 and an editor was sentenced to three months in prison.

Not only is the law rigid regarding newspaper publication in such cases, but not until after conviction is the prosecution permitted even to mention crimes which the accused may have committed prior to the case in hand. The prisoner may be a notorious criminal with many previous convictions, but heaven help anyone who points to this.

English courts are noted for operating expeditiously and on a common-sense basis. The judge—a very dignified figure in his great gray wig and gown—is truly the master of ceremonies, who frequently intervenes in a way which might result in a mistrial in some other countries.

The judge's job is to see that the truth comes out, and if the lawyers don't uncover the facts, the justice does it for them. For instance, I have seen a judge in a murder trial turn to the jury and say:

Evidently Was "Lying"

"You may disregard entirely the testimony of this witness. He obviously is lying."

I also have seen a judge lean over and ask a witness a leading question which resulted in the conviction of the accused. The defense offered no objection.

This paternal attitude of the judges often produces dry humor from the bench, and England through the generations has been famous for her witty justices. During my many years in London the newspapers almost daily published quips from the bench. Here's one that has stuck in my mind:

A witness had just testified that he went into the elephant house at the London zoo to make a telephone call. The judge inquired solemnly: "A trunk call, I presume."

In England the proceedings in the jury room are secret. That is, the only fact made public is the verdict. There is no disclosure of how the verdict was reached, or what if any argument there may have been in reaching it. Once a verdict of guilty has been given in a murder case, the condemned is sentenced to be hanged just twenty-one days from date. This gives time for an appeal if the defense wants it.

Speaking of paternalism from the bench, you also find it in America. I encountered an instance of it in the first murder trial I had to cover as a newspaperman. I was young and just a cub, very anxious to do a good job. Some testimony came up which seemed to me to be damaging to the defendant, but I wasn't sure. Therefore at the noon recess I went to the gray haired judge and stated my problem, with a request that he help me out.

I shall never forget the expression of surprise which swept over his face, to give way to a humorous twitching at the corners of his mouth.

"My boy," he replied in kindly tone, "a justice isn't permitted to discuss a case outside the proceedings. However, if you study that evidence you may come to the conclusion that it is damaging to the defendant."

So They Say

I cannot see how one could conceive of a military man in the United States becoming a dictator. I do not believe that any group has the good of our country and the firmness of its government more at heart than soldiers, sailors and airmen. — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff.

The public should stop thinking that atomic power is around the corner. If it develops at all into an important industrial thing, it will do so many years in the future. — Atomic scientist Enrico Fermi.

Undulant Fever Spread by Animals Hard to Diagnose

BY EDWIN PO JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Brucellosis, or undulant fever, is an important disease in human beings. About 4000 cases are reported in the United States every year. There are undoubtedly many more not reported because the chronic form of the disease is exceedingly difficult to diagnose and even many acute cases may not be recognized.

In a typical acute attack there is fever, a chilly feeling, loss of weight, excessive sweating, headaches and pains in the muscles. At times a slight rash on the skin is observed. The fever tends to rise and fall in a wavelike manner, which gives the disease its common name of undulant fever.

Symptoms of the disease are not always typical, however, and therefore many cases slip by without being recognized. In the chronic, long-lasting types diagnosis may be particularly difficult.

Infects Animals

Several animals can be infected with brucellosis, especially hogs, cattle, sheep and goats. Until recently it was thought that almost all human infections came from drinking the milk or eating meat from infected animals. Although infections do arise in this way, there are many cases which have started from direct contact with the meat of slaughtered animals.

Skin tests are helpful in tracking down the disease in some cases; a blood test is helpful in others. A completely reliable test has not yet been found.

Avoidance of brucellosis is most important. Drinking only pasteurized milk would do away with the danger of acquiring the disease from milk. Elimination of the disease in dairy and meat animals is also important. Campaigns against animal brucellosis are now being carried out in many parts of the country.

Treatment has not been too successful. Recently promising results have been reported with the use of streptomycin and a sulfa drug in combination.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

QUESTION: Do sclerosis of the mastoid cells and chronic otitis media mean the same thing?

ANSWER: They do not mean exactly the same thing but they are very likely both the results of the same chronic infection involving the deeper portions of the ear and the mastoid processes lying back of it.

Men Will Never Understand Some Things About Women

Some things a woman just can't explain to a man so that he will understand!

Why she is so upset when she goes to a party and meets another woman wearing a dress exactly like the one she has on.

Why she instinctively distrusts some women, knowing without being able to explain why they aren't to be trusted.

How she can have a closet full of clothes and still not have a thing to wear to a certain party.

How she can satisfy herself as to what another woman is like in just one meeting.

How she can like another woman and still enjoy pointing out her defects.

Why she can have a lone man to dinner with a minimum of work and worry — but has to give the whole house a good going over and work out an elaborate menu if he is going to bring his wife along.

How she can tell when another woman means a remark to be catty — even though it is worded like a compliment.

Why it irritates her to have her husband too enthusiastic over a meal cooked by another woman.

Visitors' Arrival Sends Her Scurrying

Why, no matter how well the house looks, she always has to scurry around picking up and plumping pillows, etc., when a couple telephones that they are going to "drop in."

Why she'll work harder to impress a woman she doesn't like than one she does.

Why she accepts invitations she doesn't want to accept, thereby obligating herself to entertain people she considers bores.

Why she'll dress up in her best clothes, hire a baby sitter and

Q's and A's

Q—Do eagles ever carry off children?

A—There are stories that eagles sometimes carry off babies, but no scientific record of this ever has been made. Eagles eat rabbits, and wild ducks, and some other birds. Sometimes they catch lambs, but they are more fond of fish than any other food.

Q—What disposition was made of the Princely or native States after the independence of India was established?

A—The majority of the 563 more or less independent Princely States in India joined India and the remainder joined the Moslem union of Pakistan. Hyderabad has remained completely independent, with certain concessions to India.

REFUGE

By Mildred Crain and Harwood White

THE STORY: Mrs. Malone, a widow, has become the cook on a strange caravan bound for a mysterious destination. The caravan consists of a gigantic trailer pulled by a truck and driven by a uniformed chauffeur Rudy, and a smaller trailer pulled by a sedan which Victor, the Filipino driver, speaks like a college professor, drives. Everything is efficient and well planned, but already Mrs. Malone is beginning to wonder what kind of people she is working for. Her employer is Mrs. Everson, middle aged, but still good looking and who has the manners of an actress. With her is a guest, the Marchese Delacenza, who speaks with a foreign accent. Even Rudy, the chauffeur, seems strangely familiar to Mrs. Malone. "You sure carry civilization with you," she tells Rudy. "That was the idea," he replies.

"I can tell you the story," Rudy began. And then hesitated.

"I'm all ears," Mrs. Malone said.

"YOU don't have to believe anything I tell you," Rudy continued. "I'll give it to you straight, and you can take it or leave it."

He rubbed his head reflectively. "To go back a ways: Mrs. Everson wasn't always rich. She started out as a waitress in Oklahoma and married a man much older than herself. I figure she had her eye on some old leeches he held. Anyway his wells came in."

"Lucky, wasn't she?"

Rudy shook his head.

"No. She wasn't. They moved West and built a little house on top of a hill near Los Angeles. Pappy was a millionaire, all right, but he turned out to be ignorant and jealous and tight as the dickens. She did all her own housework, made her own clothes, never went anywhere. But she stayed with it. Twenty years, I guess she figured he'd die first, and then she'd have her fling."

"That's what I call a smart woman," Mrs. Malone said. "If you like them smart. I don't."

"You've got to hand it to her. She was patient . . . and faithful. She never let on she was unhappy. 'Lucky, wasn't she?'"

"That was three years ago—and left her his millions."

"It wasn't in the papers."

"No. She didn't want publicity. She was after position. A real place in the social sun. I know because I was one of her first employees. I answered an ad in the paper, and here I am: driver, mechanic, bodyguard and father confessor to a rich dame."

Mrs. Malone inclined her head toward the Filipino.

"And Victor?"

"She stole Victor from a cock-

tail bar in Beverly Hills. The perfect houseboy. Unattached. Needs no sleep. Craves no personal satisfaction."

IT was on the tip of her tongue to ask: "How come he talks like a professor?" But she checked herself. She must have made some sign, however, because Rudy smiled, a bit derisively she thought.

"I know what you're thinking," he said. "Tell the lady, Victor. You graduated from Columbia, didn't you?"

"Yes, I did," Victor said.

"That explains it," said Mrs. Malone. "But why do you work as a houseboy—surely you have enough education to do something more?"

"It is not bad work," explained Victor. "The pay is excellent."

"Some day, when he has collected his stake," Rudy continued, "he'll go back home. Meantime he doesn't care much what he does or where he goes . . ."

Mrs. Malone met his eyes squarely.

"It happens I do care. Where are we going?"

He hesitated a moment, stirring the coffee in his cup, creating a small vortex of bubbles.

"The story is," he said at last, "we're on our way to a place of safety."

"I don't get you," she said.

"It's a long story," Rudy said. "Why don't you let it go at that? Everyone wants safety and security. Mrs. Everson thinks she knows where to find it."

"Safety from what?" Mrs. Malone asked.

"It's not an easy thing to explain."

"You might try. I'm fairly intelligent."

Rudy sipped his coffee.

Daughter of Sedalian Visits Lepers' Colony Near Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. O'Donnell, 512 East Third street, have received a letter from their daughter, Sister Grace Dolores, in which she told of a trip by plane to the Island of Molokai from Honolulu where she is stationed. The trip was made by her, two others nuns and a priest for the purpose of visiting the small settlement of Kalanpota where the lepers' colony is located.

Kalanpota, she said, is an isolated place on one side of which is a high mountain, almost straight up and on the other three sides the ocean. It can be reached only by plane.

It is now a United States hospital which is taken care of by eleven Franciscan sisters.

The chapel was built for the colony by Father Damion, a Belgian, who was buried there and later his body was taken up and sent, with the altar of the church, back to Belgium.

The three Sisters were shown the bell of the chapel and permitted to ring it, but what they did not know was that the ringing of the bell would bring the inhabitants of the settlement to see them because it was a signal that there were visitors in their community.

On one side of the road were cemeteries, Catholic, Protestant, Japanese, Chinese, all nationalities and all faiths, each separate.

Sister Grace Dolores said that there were terrible sights among those ill with the disease but that now there were only 250 persons there where at one time there had been as high as a thousand.

Striped College Club Meetings

The Striped College boys and girls cooking I, II and III classes met on Wednesday at the home of their leader, Mrs. Martin Schupp.

The meeting was opened by all repeating the 4-H pledge.

Roll call was given by each naming their favorite tree. Charlene Eye gave a demonstration, making baked custard. Rosella Hunter gave a demonstration on making cocoa. Betty Leiter gave a demonstration making hamburger and sandwiches. Mrs. Schupp gave a demonstration on how to wrap a sandwich in the envelope way. Betty Leiter, Rosella Hunter and Charlene Eye judged muffins and biscuits.

Pat Henley and Mary Bahner were visitors. Members present were: Tony Larson, Laura Bahner, Rosella Hunter, Lillian Bahner, Charlene Eye, Ida Mae Bahner, Betty Leiter and Bonny Schupp.

The next meeting will be held July 27.

Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were: Mrs. B. H. Jenkins, Mrs. Della Clark, Mrs. Sherman Meyers, Mrs. Kenneth Stewart, Mrs. George Mahin, and Mrs. Ralph Capes.

The evening was spent playing games. Each guest was presented with crepe paper, needles and pins with which to make a baby bonnet, after which a group picture was taken with guests wearing bonnets they had made. The award for the prettiest bonnet went to Mrs. Forrest Yoder. Other awards of the evening went to Mrs. John Bowman, Mrs. William Daugherty and Mrs. H. J. Williams.

The many gifts received by the guest of honor were displayed under a large pink and blue umbrella. At the close of the evening refreshments of cake, ice cream and punch were served.

The members of the H. D. club gave a personal shower at the home of Miss Allene Hall, 911 Crescent Drive, Saturday night in honor of Mrs. Calvin Rodgers, Jr., who was married Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Rodgers was formerly Miss Betty Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Okeke Rice, Fifth and Lamine.

Cold drinks and cake were served as refreshments. Mrs. Rodgers received many nice gifts. Those present were: Misses Mary Jane Anderson, Rosann Behrens, Berly Evans, Allene Hall, Ruth Ann Keuper, Norman Milburn, Gayle Scruton, Mrs. Fred R. Nuzum and the honoree, Mrs. Calvin Rodgers, Jr.

Later on in the evening Miss Hall had a slumber party for the members of the club.

Many Activities For Girl Scouts In Camp at Lake Miniwanca

Barbara Conway, who is a member of the staff at Camp Miniwanca, Shelly, Mich., writes of the following activities:

"The girls went to Stormy Lake and had a Venetian Sing. One group stayed up on the hillside while another went out in boats on the lake. These with boats had Japanese lanterns and formed a circle on the water. One group would sing and then the other. We were pretty eager that night I guess, because we decided to climb Old Baldy, from the steep side.

It is a young mountain and goes straight up. We put out shoes on our hands and crawled up. On our way home we stopped to chat with some of the leaders who had built a fire on the beach close to camp and ate toasted marshmallows.

Recently we went to Silver Lake and went dune scooting. These little cars (like jeeps) take you for a "roller coaster ride" over the dunes, really thrilling. They go straight up in places and then suddenly take a sharp dive down a steep embankment so that you practically fly out the top.

Last night the boys had the Miniwanca Square Gardens boxing match in the Council Circle with a built up platform, a loud announcer and phonograph music. They had the "no-see um" weight, the "Fly Weight," the light heavy weight and the heavy weight. The girls had a carnival in the Tipi. The following night the little campers put on the operetta, "The Mikado," for the evening's entertainment.

The following day, we gathered flowers while on a trip to Silver Lake for Miss Stafford's flower arranging class. We found some of the prettiest green and red leaves with little white berries on said that is the maximum load they can carry without disrupting their economic recovery. But that, he insisted, is not "enough to furnish these nations the protection they need."

Limited Dollar Aid

Mr. Truman said it does not give them enough protection partly because they cannot divert more of their resources from civilian recovery and partly because they cannot make some of the things they need. So, the president said:

"I recommend that we supply these countries with assistance of three types:

"First, a limited amount of dollar aid to enable them to increase their own production of military items without impairing their efforts for economic recovery;

"Second, the direct transfer of certain essential items of military equipment, and

"Third, the assistance of experts in the production and use of military equipment and the training of personnel.

"Such a program will enable these countries to acquire the elements necessary to their defense without hampering their recovery."

He said the aim of the proposed plan is to help the European nations create "mobile defensive forces" so that in the shortest possible time they will be capable of "maintaining internal order and resisting the initial phases of external aggression." He declared:

"At the present time, the military power which is the greatest deterrent to aggression is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles away from Europe. It must be made clear that the United States has no intention, in the event of aggression, of allowing the peoples of western Europe to be overrun before its own power can be brought to bear. The program of military assistance now proposed is a tangible assurance of our purpose in this regard."

Aid Vital to Security
The United States, he said, can bear the cost of military aid only for those countries "vital to our national security where the danger is greatest and where the ability to pay for military equipment is least."

Mr. Truman said $1,450,000,000 he is asking would provide funds to be spent or committed during the next 12 months and to be delivered over the next two years.

"The recommended program covers the most pressing current needs for military aid," he said. "How long it may be necessary to continue military aid depends on many unpredictable factors. Our burden will undoubtedly lessen as our program for peace brings its returns," he continued.

"Advancing economic recovery will enable the free nations to maintain a larger share of the expense of their own defense measures. Progress toward a peaceful settlement of international differences will reduce the threat of violence and lighten the cost of preparedness. Ultimately, when the peaceful principles of the United Nations are fully realized, the protection of the peace may be assigned to the security forces of that organization."

Draw Close To Changsha

Another Big Storm
Okinawa, just getting over a savage typhoon, was alerted today that another big storm was sweeping across the Pacific.

Winds estimated up to 150 miles an hour swept across U. S. military installations on the island Saturday. The army said a 7-year-old American girl was killed and 16 Americans were injured in the typhoon.

There were reports in Germany of a major shift in American personnel. The plan, according to military government sources, calls for the movement of a large number of Americans from Berlin to Frankfurt and Bonn. Frankfurt is the business heart of the British-American zone and Bonn is the capital of the West German federal republic.

A Belgrade dispatch reviewing Yugoslavia's diplomatic position said Premier Marshal Tito, the first Communist ruler to say "No" to Prime Minister Stalin, seems to be still firmly in the saddle. More than a year ago the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) blasted Tito for Nationalist deviation from what the Kremlin regards as orthodox Communism.

There have been border incidents, shootings, sabotage and spies in Yugoslavia, but the country appears to be weathering the economic and strategic strains resulting from the Cominform attack.

Ernie Pyle in New Cemetery

Mrs. Heber Paige, 623 East Thirteenth street, received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Elliott, wife of Col. W. S. Elliott, who is in command of the United States Army at Honolulu, in which she told of the new cemetery where Ernie Pyle has been buried.

The letter was written the day before the new cemetery was officially opened and Mrs. Elliott wrote:

"Tomorrow I go up to the famous Punch Bowl which is a huge extinct volcano that evidently blew its top off many, many centuries ago and has filled up with earth. They have made a very beautiful cemetery right up in the center of the crater and tomorrow they will bury cute little old Ernie Pyle, who wrote such wonderful things about the war. He was killed by a sniper's bullet on Iwo Jima just as the war was almost over. Now they are bringing him back to bury in an American cemetery. It really marks the opening officially of this new cemetery which it quite a show place."

Burial will be in the Memorial Park cemetery.

No Bombs in Aid Program Sending Arms

But no such easy sailing appeared in prospect for the arms program.

Details of the program would not be written out in law as drafted by the administration. Only broad assignments of authority would be given the president along with responsibility for carrying out the details himself.

Of the $1,450,000,000 which the proposed law would let Mr. Truman spend, the booklet says most would go to western Europe — "an area whose importance to our security has been demonstrated in two world wars."

Tying the military assistance proposal directly to the North Atlantic treaty, the state department said the program would "complement" the treaty by carrying out its principals of "self help and mutual aid." Of the appeal for arms made by western European members of the treaty several months ago, the department added:

"Their defense is our defense and will continue to be of deep concern to us as long as their military weakness invites aggression."

Atlantic Pact Signed Today

short credit demands in Congress for a less ambitious program.

Views May Differ
Two Republican Senators who have played an important part in drafting this country's bi-partisan foreign policy had served advance notice on the administration that its views may not coincide with theirs.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, announced over the weekend he favored a "stop-gap" arms program—one to be carried out only until grand strategy can take shape under the Atlantic pact.

And Senator Dulles of New York, a top adviser on foreign policy matters, flatly called the $1,450,000,000 figure "too big" even before he entered the Senate.

Actually the value of the proposed foreign arms aid would approach $1,825,000,000 the State Department disclosed.

The extra value is in "excess" U. S. military stocks, proposed to be sent to America's friends abroad with no charge other than the cost of betting it ready for use, and handling.

About $450,000,000 worth of such material, the department estimated, can be provided with only about $75,000,000 in rehabilitation costs charged against the program.

Under the program, military aid would go mainly to eight European nations and to about a half dozen others scattered all the way from Europe to the Pacific ocean.

Sedalia Team Meets J. C. in Zone Finals

Winner of Tonight's Game Will go to State Tournament

The Sedalia Junior Legion Post 16 team and Jefferson City Junior Legion will meet at Kirksville tonight at 8:15 in a playoff contest to determine the zone championship in an American League Junior League Baseball Tournament. The winner of tonight's game will represent the zone in the state tournament at Springfield, scheduled to start Friday.

The Jefferson City team defeated Sedalia Sunday night in a pitcher's duel by a 2 to 1 score. Brown went all the way for Sedalia, with Neidhardt behind the plate. Brown allowed four hits and struck out nine, while Plogstedt allowed five hits and struck out 19 Sedalia batters. Pashal was behind the plate for Jefferson City.

The first run of the game, came in the seventh inning, when Jefferson scored an unearned run. Sedalia tied the score in the eighth when Morgan singled and stole second base, and Walker doubled to drive Morgan in for the lone run. Jefferson City broke the tied score in the last half of the ninth when Pashal, Jefferson City catcher, singled, followed by two outs, then was drove home by a double.

Ray, coach and Cecil Glenn, manager.

Saints Lead American Assn.

By the Associated Press

St. Paul remained one-half game ahead of Indianapolis in the steaming American Association pennant race today as both teams split Sunday doubleheaders.

The Saints captured a 3-0 opener from Kansas City on Phil Haugstad's seven-hitter. It was his 14th victory. The Blues rebounded for an 8-6 decision although needing four pitchers to do it. Aldon Wilkie, No. 3, got the victory while Morrie Martin, fifth St. Paul hurler, was the loser.

Indianapolis shaded Columbus 7-6, and dropped the nightcap 9-4. Minneapolis fortified fourth place with a sweep over second place Milwaukee. Jack Harshman and Charlie Workman drove in eight runs in the opener as the Millers breezed to a 12-6 count. They took the nightcap 7-6.

Louisville skipped into sixth place over Kansas City by a one-half game margin by trimming last-place Toledo twice. The Colonels blasted 17 hits to take the starter 12-1. They took the second 4-2.

Cardinals Into League Lead By Blasting Dodgers 14-1

By Joe Reichler

Associated Press Sports Writer

If you value your life don't dare mention to a Brooklyn rooter that Stan Musial is having an off year.

Should you be lucky enough to be conscious when he gets through with you, he'll painstakingly prove that the only reason that the St. Louis Cardinals are in first place today is that they own title to Stan (The Man) Musial.

You may argue that Musial, hitting only .299; is far below his normal batting gait. The Brooklyn fan will counter with a blow-by-blow description of Musial's one-man wrecking of Dodger pitching this year.

He'll first point out that Stan was the big gun in the Cards' 14-1 blasting of the Dodgers yesterday which shot them into the league lead by a half game over the Braves. In that game, Musial completed a batting cycle—a single, double, triple and home run. He also batted in four runs.

But the fan won't stop there. He'll show you where Musial has been the ringleader in nearly all of the nine games the Cards have won from Brooklyn this year. He'll recount from painful memory the 24 hits in 53 times at bat that Musial has collected against Dodger pitching, which adds up to a .453 batting mark. At Ebbets Field, his average is a cool .533.

Collected 16 Hits Off Newcombe Every regular except Joe Garagiola hit safely yesterday as the Cards collected 16 hits against Don Newcombe, Paul Minner and Carl Erskine. Newcombe failed to retire a man as the Cards ganged up on him and his successor for four runs in the first inning. In the meantime Howie Pollet breezed to his 13th victory.

The New York Yankees rallied gamely to come from behind and defeat the Detroit Tigers, 6-3, in 11 innings. As a result Cleveland's 7-5 and 5-2 sweep of a doubleheader from Washington cut only a half game from the Yankees' margin which is now four games. Cleveland's Bob Lemon relied upon his bat to register his 12th victory against four losses. The Indians righthander belted two homers in the opener. First baseman Mickey Vernon was the Tribe's big gun in the nightcap with two homers.

Browns Split Doubleheader

The third place Boston Red Sox dropped eight and a half lengths of the pace, dividing a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns. The Browns eked out a 9-8 victory in the opener, Jack Kramer gained his first victory of the year as the Red Sox won the second, 8-4.

The Philadelphia Athletics swept a twin bill from the Chicago White Sox, 7-2 and 6-4 for their fourth and fifth victories in their last 17 games.

Pittsburgh came from behind twice to sweep a doubleheader from the Boston Braves, 4-3 and 7-6. The Pirates spotted the Braves a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the opener, but caught up with Johnny Sain in the fourth and beat him in the seventh. Dino Restelli's first hit in 14 times at bat scored Johnny Hop with the winning run.

The Cincinnati Reds took a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phils, 10-1 and 4-3. A single by Dixie Howell pushed over the Reds' winning run in the ninth of the nightcap.

The cellar-shackled Chicago Cubs knocked off the New York Giants twice, 5-3 and 6-1 to put a fitting climax to the celebration of "Frankie Frisch Day" in the Polo Grounds.

Holcomb Beat Marshall In State Tourney

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25—(P)—Holcomb blanked Marshall 3 to 0 in the Missouri semi-pro baseball tournament here last night, with hurler Lloyd Fisher turning in a no-hitter.

The victory puts Holcomb in the fourth round of the winner's bracket.

Only one game was played last night.

TRENTON, July 25—(P)—The zone championship of the American Legion Junior baseball tournament was won last night by the Grover Metzger Post of Kansas City.

The Kansas City team defeated St. Joseph 3 to 2.

Yesterday afternoon, the Kansas City team downed St. Joseph 8 to 4 in the double elimination tournament.

New World's Record Set In Power Boat Race

BUSH RIVER, Md., July 25—(P)—A hair-raising 92-mile an hour run by Joe Van Blerck, set a new world record in the Bush River yacht club regatta yesterday.

The American Powerboat Association sanctioned the record.

Van Blerck's mark—92.308 mph, to be exact—improved by four miles the former standard for seven-meter boats in a mile trial. The Freeport, N. Y., pilot did it the hard way, steering his Aljo the last 300 yards with a hole in its bottom and water gushing into the cockpit.

But the manifold manufacturer had his vessel repaired in time for the day's feature event, the Arundel free-for-all, and won the five-mile race with an average of 62 mph.

Complaint Filed Against Locke

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 25—(P)—

The Professional Golfers' Association announced today it has blacklisted Bobby Locke for any PGA sponsored event.

The PGA's tournament committee said its unanimous decision against the South African golfer was "deemed necessary" because of his failure to keep commitments at exhibitions and tournaments.

The announcement was made by George Schneider, the association's tournament bureau manager. It said the committee made a careful study of all the facts and felt the action was necessary to protect the sponsors and maintain the tournament schedule.

Schneider declined to make public names of those persons who had filed the complaints.

"There were numerous complaints filed against Mr. Locke," he said, "but the committee prefers not to disclose any specific ones. Actually, from time to time, different things have entered the picture to make the action necessary."

Blues Drubbed K. C. Club Sunday 20-1

This Was 10th Home Victory For Sedalia Team

The Sedalia Blues went on a hitting spree Sunday afternoon at Housel Park to win their tenth home game by downing Southside Athletics of Kansas City 20 to 1.

Turcek started for the Blues, but was relieved in the fifth by Bobbie Rapp, who pitched brilliant ball, striking out 10 batters and allowed on walk. Hale started for Kansas City, and was relieved in the fourth by Hanavon, who finished the game.

Slocum and Barr homered for the Blues with Clocum, Weller and Barr, each getting 3 for 5. Lindstrom was the Kansas City leading hitter, receiving two for four.

The game was full of errors for the Kansas Citizens from start to finish. Manager Hanavon of the K. C. club said after defeating the Richs club at Kansas City by a score of 6 to 1, he was surprised to be defeated by such a large margin Sunday. The manager asked for a return game.

Scheduled Games Wednesday night, the Blues journey to Mendon for a return game. Sedalia was defeated there earlier in the season by a 5 to 4 score. Sunday, the Blues play Raymore at Housel Park. Monday, August 1, the team will go to Slater, where they are to meet the Marshall Redbirds.

The Blues have games scheduled with the following clubs here: Cash Bargain Lumber, Centropolis Transfer Heart of America All-Stars, K. C. Oilers, Mayview Merchants, and Fairmount Merchants.

These clubs are well known among baseball fans, and are expected to give the Blues plenty of tough competition.

Sedalia Merchants Defeated Carrollton

In a pitcher's battle at Carrollton Sunday night, the Sedalia Merchants defeated Carrollton by a score of 6-3 in a softball game.

Norman Thompson, on the mound for Sedalia, gave up four hits and struck out 12. R. Plackmeyer of Carrollton gave up six hits and struck out 12 batters, but walked six.

The Sedalia team drew first blood of the game by scoring two runs in the third inning, and four in the sixth. Carrollton pushed across their three runs in the seventh inning.

Paul Evans was the leading hitter of the game, getting two for three.

The Merchants have now played 19 games this season, and have won all of them with the exception of three.

Results of Western Association Teams

By the Associated Press

The fifth place Topeka Owls have almost scrambled into the first division of the Western Association.

The Owls knocked over the third place Muskogee Reds 10-6 and 6-2 last night, and 4-0 Saturday and are just a half game behind Joplin.

Fort Smith and Joplin failed to gain ground. They split two doubleheaders. Fort Smith garnered 15 hits off three pitchers in seven innings to take the opener last night 12-1. Both teams played errorless ball in that tilt, but the last game went awry.

Joplin counted three runs in the eighth inning to take the nightcap 11-9 as Fort Smith committed eight errors and the Miners three.

It took 11 innings for Salina to beat Leavenworth last night 10-7. The score was tied at 5-all at the end of the ninth.

At St. Joseph the Cardinals maintained their perfect record against Hutchinson on the home field, 10-1 last night and 10-5 Saturday.

Three-game series will be started tonight by Leavenworth at Salina and St. Joseph at Hutchinson. The other clubs have an open date for travel.

Hainline Won Men's Singles in Tennis

IOWA CITY, Ia., July 25—(P)—

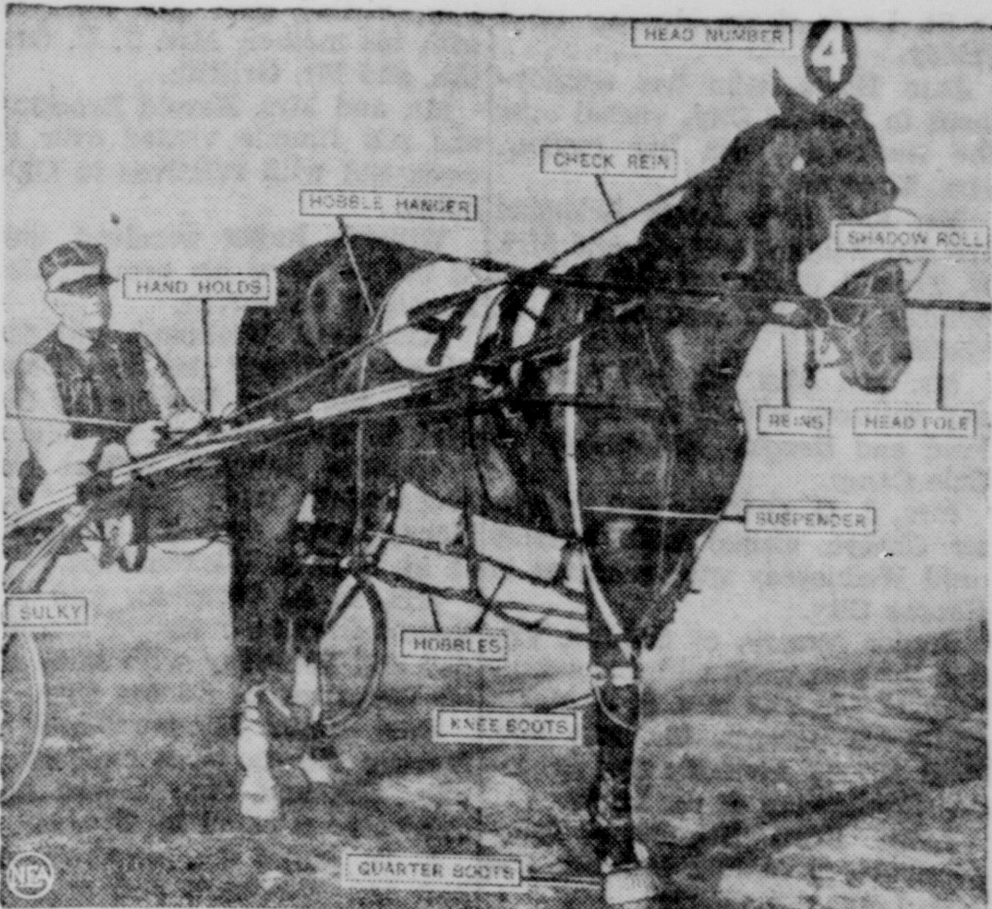

Dr. Richard Hainline, Rock Island, Ill., defeated Bill Miller of Kansas City 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 yesterday to win the men's singles title in the Missouri Valley Tennis tournament.

Miller, fourth seeded, Saturday defeated second seeded Lucien Barbour of Winfield, Kas., 4-6, 8-6, 11-9. Hainline had advanced to the finals with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Kirke Mechem, Jr., of Topeka, Kas.

Doris Poppel of Des Moines, seeded fourth, bested second seeded Mrs. Lucile Davidson of Lee's Summit, Mo., 9-7, 2-6, 6-3, to take the women's singles crown yesterday.

Dr. Hainline and Len Prosser, Mission, Kas., captures the men's doubles with 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Ward Parker and Bob Ziervogel of St. Louis.

Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Nora Prosser, Mission, Kas., turned back Miss Poppel and Doris Jensen of Des Moines 6-2, 0-8, 6-4, for the women's doubles title.

McKinney Won Medal Invitational

Hieronymus Placed Second in Central Missouri Tourney

Jim McKinney, Columbia's favorite golfing son, won the Central Missouri Invitational Medal Play Tournament, Sunday at the Jefferson City Country club.

McKinney played the tricky Jefferson City layout in even par figures, ringing the bell for 14 pars and two birdies, while going over on only two holes. His 74 was two strokes better than Damon Hieronymus of Sedalia, who copied second place with a score of 76.

Hieronymus played a steady game, piling up 17 pars, having trouble on only the deceptive number six hole, where his second shot caught the sand trap, just off the green. His shot out of the sand trap carried over the green into the rough. Then after his fourth shot left him about six feet from the cup, the putt failed to do down.

Cotton Finished Third

Phil Cotton of Columbia finished third with 77, while Henry Andrea of Jefferson City and Bob Sherman of Sedalia tied for fourth with rounds of 78.

Jimmy Curran of Jefferson City awarded the Stephen Ethall Memorial Trophy to McKinney. Prizes also were awarded to the five winners, including golf bags to McKinney and Hieronymus, while Cotton, Andrea and Sherman divided four dozen golf balls.

The tournament was witnessed by many interested spectators. The scores of the Sedalia players: Hieronymus 76, Sherman 78, D. Van Dyne 81, N. G. Patterson 85 and Gibson 88.

Golfers Head For Western Open Tourney

TOLEDO, O., July 25—(P)—Fifteen golf professionals headed today for St. Paul, Minn., and the Western Open tournament after winding up the 12th Inverness Invitational in which Chick Harbert of Detroit and Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., walked off with most of the swag.

Harbert and Hamilton spread eagled the field from Thursday through Sunday, losing but one match to finish with a rating of plus 19. This was 14 points ahead of their nearest opponents, Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., and Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C.

The plus 19 score gave them top money of $4,000. Additional awards for the most birdies (58) and tying for the best round of the tourney (an 11 under par 60) gave them a total of $4,450 to split.

Over 100 Boys Enter Junior Golf Tourney

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—Hopes ran high among more than 100 youngsters today as they prepared to face each other in the National Junior Golf tournament.

The under-18 classic opens here Wednesday at the 6618-yard par 72 Congressional Country club.

All but a few of the juvenile golfers already are sounding out the local layout with 18 and 36-hole practice rounds.

The first round field of 128 qualified for the meet in medal play at 38 sectional tourneys throughout the country last week.

The tourney—officially called "The National Junior Amateur Championship of the United States Golf Association"—is a seven round, four day match play affair with the two finalists meeting for the 1949 title Saturday afternoon.

What every party-line telephone user knows...

fore the war, when they could have had individual lines.

Today, out of each four families with telephones, about three have party-line telephones and one of them has asked for a different type of service.

We'd like to be able to give it to them. We are working toward that, and are making some progress despite the continuing heavy demand for telephones from those still without any service.

We have on file thousands of requests for some other type of service. Wherever local conditions permit, we are meeting these requests, and are keeping a careful record of all requests, to act on at the first opportunity.

Every person with a party-line telephone at home knows at least three things about the service.

He knows the line must be shared fairly to be useful to everyone—just as a street is shared by those on it.

He knows he appreciates courtesy from others on the line—such as not interrupting, and recognizing his emergency needs for the line now and then.

He knows whether party-line service meets his needs. About half our customers have always preferred party-line service, even be-

Training Meet In Stock Judging

The annual 4-H livestock judging training meeting was held Wednesday, July 20th, with 35 4-H livestock project members participating. The group judged steers, Angus cows, Angus heifers, Shorthorn cows, Shorthorn heifers, fat barrows, and aged ewes under the direction of Mr. Charlie Kyd, livestock specialist from the university, who assisted the Assistant County Agent in conducting the meeting.

The first stop was at the Walter Smith farm where the 4-H members judged and gave reasons on a class of fat steers. From the Smith farm the group proceeded to the Tom Ream farm to judge Angus cows and heifers and a class of fat barrows. While at the Ream farm the group ate their lunches which they brought with them. Mrs. Ream provided plenty of ice tea which was appreciated by all. The last stop was at the John Sneed farm where Shorthorn cows and heifers and a class of aged ewes were judged.

Mr. Kyd gave reasons on each class of livestock judged and explained why he placed the animals the way he did. He also pointed out to the 4-H members the things to look for when judging or selecting livestock.

Fifteen parents and leaders also attended the meeting. One club, Pleasant Green, had 100% attendance as well as some of the parents and leaders attending. The mothers of the Pleasant Green 4-Hers also served a picnic lunch to their group which made the meeting a pleasant as well as educational affair to them.

Signing F. H. A. Loan

Chester A. Brown and Mrs. Brown are shown signing an F.H.A. loan, which is the first of its kind in Pettis county insured by the Farmers Home Administration. Others left to right who witnessed the negotiation are C. A. Wisdom, president of the Farmers Merchants Bank of Green Ridge, Oscar DeWolf, County Supervisor of Farmers' Home Administration, and Lee C. Hedmond, Jr., affiliated with the Landmann Abstract and Title company.

The first loan made in Pettis county, insured by the Farmers Home Administration, was negotiated by Chester A. Brown, for farm development purposes on his 120 acre farm, west of Green Ridge.

The money was furnished by the Farmers' Merchants Bank of Green Ridge. The loans are insured for 90 per cent of the normal value of the farm after contemplated land and improvements have been made.

The mortgage on the farm was re-financed and enough additional funds provided in the loan to finance the basic structure of a complete water management system, and establish a balance system of farming, and to provide the necessary repair of the buildings.

The Farm Home Administration provides for all the supervision and servicing of the loan, making the loan on the bank standpoint essentially the same as a government bond.

Federal Supervision

Oscar DeWolf, county supervisor of Farmers Home Administration, said the government doesn't furnish any funds in this type loan, giving local banks an opportunity to use surplus money to invest in sound securities and yielding the bank three per cent on such loans. He said the government provides the supervision and loan servicing, and before a farmer is eligible to receive benefits of this type of real-estate financing they must have at least a 10 per cent equity in the farm and be ineligible for real-estate financing by Federal Land bank or other normal sources of real-estate credit.

They must have demonstrated in farm operations and credit reputation to be a good credit risk. Such individuals must be approved on a filed application. The loans may be used for farm purchases, farm developments and farm enlargements. This type financing is provided for in the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act as amended in 1946.

Not Vote On Market Quotas

Wheat acreage allotments for 1950 will be proclaimed and put into effect for price support purposes however because of deterioration of 1949 wheat crop resulting in a drop of 148 million bushels below the June estimate wheat marketing quotas will not be voted upon, is the information received by Jas. A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis county A. C. A. committee.

Individual farm acreage allotments will be determined for Pettis county wheat farms in the very near future and notices mailed to all wheat growers. In a few instances plowing has already been started for the 1950 wheat crop but it is expected that allotments will be in the hands of farmers before plowing has progressed to any considerable extent.

The Plague That Hops:

Today's Grasshopper Battle
A Fight as Old as Human Life

THE VICTIM: This was a cornfield in the Dakotas during the last serious U. S. 'hopper plague (1936-38). Then, as now, they will eat the stalks if they are hungry enough.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In the history of man's fight for survival on Earth, grasshopper plagues rank with floods, storms and droughts as his natural enemy. From earliest recorded history until today, the grasshopper has been one of the human being's greatest competitors for this planet's food supply.

The Bible refers to the grasshopper as a locust, but scientists have identified the Scripture locusts as a species of grasshopper. The book of Revelations, ninth chapter, describes them:

"And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth; and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power."

No continent on the globe is free of the deadly grasshopper menace. South America, Africa, China and the European countries all suffer continued serious losses from them.

Experts rank the grasshopper outbreaks of the years 1874 to 1876 as America's worst agricultural disaster. Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of damage was done to crops, and acute food shortages resulted.

In terms of dollars the United States probably takes the worst loss from this pest. The period from 1936 to 1938 was the last most serious outbreak. Crop damage during those years was $253,000,000. During a typical non-outbreak year, such as 1945, grasshopper damage was $13,000,000. These figures don't include the millions spent in trying to control them.

According to J. R. Parker, one of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's experts, practically every state of the Union suffers from grasshoppers in injurious numbers somewhere every year.

The area between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, extending up into Canada, is the most vulnerable to the grasshopper scourge on the North American continent. In Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, there is a lesser danger of "severe outbreak, with great hordes migrating in mass flights. But the annual damage done by the 'hopper in these states is still considerable.

The Department of Agriculture rates a "severe outbreak" as one during which there is "serious damage to crops in many counties of a state."

From 1841 to 1940, Montana and Minnesota experienced major, severe outbreaks an average of once every other year. During the same period Nebraska had 48 outbreaks. States having 35 or more outbreaks during that time include Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Utah and Wyoming.

The present outbreak in the

Sprayer in Operation is Designed by Father and Son

"Bob" Curtiss, son of E. E. Curtiss of Beaman spraying corn with a sprayer he and his Dad designed themselves and had built at a cost of $104.00. The sprayer covered 6 rows at a time and at normal operating speed they could spray about 9 to 10 acres per hour. Besides spraying 90 acres on their own farm Bob treated over 100 acres for neighbors. "Results were generally good" said Mr. Curtiss. "About the only weeds missed were those protected from spray by larger ones." He added that the corn was quite brittle for a few days after spraying.

in grasshopper plagues, according to statistics of the Department of Agriculture. That is, since records have been available. The "cycle" refers to a long-term build-up in grasshopper population followed by a noticeable decline.

The first one began in 1862 and continued until 1877. The second one began in 1910 and ended in 1925. The third period ran from 1930 to about 1941. When the one that is beginning now will end, the experts won't predict.

Inquiries Made On Crop Loans

Inquiries have been received by Jas. A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis county A. C. A. committee concerning the availability of loans on 1949-crop oats, rye, barley and grain sorghum.

Loans are available on these grains either under farm or warehouse storage. The full loan rates on warehouse-stored oats, barley, rye and grain sorghums will be received only if the producer pre-pays all warehouse charges other than receiving charges.

If such charges are not paid in advance through March 31, 1950 for grain sorghums, and through April 30, 1950 for the other grains, an amount equal to these charges under the 1949 Uniform Grain Storage Agreement will be deducted from the loans. These deductions amount to 10 cents a bushel on barley, 8 cents a bushel on oats, and 10-11½ cents per bushel on rye and grain sorghums according to areas.

Indications are that some Pettis county farmers will store their oats in a local elevator for loan. In this event the storage charge of 8c per bushel is to be paid in advance to the warehouseman or will be deducted from the amount of the loan. Harvey explained that with the county oat loan rate for No. 3 or better grain at 69c per bushel minus the storage charge of 8c and the service fee charge for preparation of loan of 12c per bushel, a net of 60½c per bushel would be obtained through a CCC loan. If the oats is stored on the farm the full loan rate of 69c per bushel minus 1 cent per bushel service fee would be received.

As yet the 1949 loan rate has not been received on rye, barley and grain sorghum.

Achievement Day Oct. 15

The Longwood Extension club met at the home of Mrs. Clay Schroeder for its July meeting. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Carl Raines, with the club singing "Song of Peace." The roll call was answered by 15 members and three visitors with "My Most Enjoyable Fourth of July."

The devotional was led by Mrs. Clay Leftwich. Achievement Day was announced for October 15. The club decided that it would write to a homemaker in Australia.

Mrs. Carl Raines read the health letter from Mrs. Catherine Zimmerman. For the August meeting, which is to be a picnic, each member was requested to bring his own table service.

Program Presented

Mrs. Cloyd Leftwich, child development chairman, gave the program that included articles on "Adolescent Age," "Alergies," and "Being the Kind of a Parent You Would Like To Be."

Mrs. Tom Raines gave a report on the number of convalescent cards sent. A collection of pennies for friendship was taken. The president appointed a nominating committee to select a panel of officers for the next club year.

Mrs. Carl Raines, Mrs. Tom Harvey and Mrs. Raymond Hurt each read a chapter from "Chicken Every Sunday." Mrs. Earl Schroeder, game leader, conducted a clever guessing contest. The hostess was presented with a gift from the club. Following adjournment of the meeting, the hostess served refreshments.

Visitors at the meeting were: Mrs. Willie Dilthey and Mrs. Babe Scott and Mrs. Lillian Mitchell.

Pettis County Wheat Acreage

Notice of the Pettis county 1950 wheat acreage allotment of 25,903 acres has been received by the county PMA association, reports James A. Harvey, chairman.

This allotment is being broken down to each individual wheat farm and notices of the wheat acreage allotments will be mailed to Pettis county farmers this week. The 1950 individual wheat allotment will be approximately 13 per cent less than the "usual acreage" which is the four year average wheat acreage from 1945 through 1948. Notices will be mailed on those farms where wheat has been produced during one or more of the past three years, 1947, 1948 or 1949. If a notice is not received by the owner and operator of such a farm, the county office should be contacted to learn why a notice was not received.

Marketing quotas will not be effective for the 1950 wheat crop. Allotments are established to control production for the purpose of supporting the price to producers. Farmers who plant within their 1950 wheat acreage allotment will be eligible to obtain a loan on their wheat while the producer who overplants his allotment, regardless of the extent, will not be eligible to obtain the loan and therefore not have the advantage of the guaranteed support price on his production, explained Harvey.

Dresden Club Flower Show

The Dresden Homemakers met at the club house Tuesday afternoon amid a setting of beautiful garden flowers of all kinds.

Mrs. P. L. Strole of Sedalia Garden Club No. 5, one of the first presidents of the Dresden Homemakers Club, judged the exhibits of mixed bouquets, arrangements and single specimen giving placings of first, second and third. She also arranged several bouquets for the coffee table, dining table, fan shaped, one of gladioli, also one in all white. Her talk on selection and arrangement was very instructive. The club presented her with a small gift.

Several bouquets were sent to Mr. George Fichter, who has been ill, but who is much improved. Seventeen members and three guests were present. Plans were made for an ice cream social to be held at the community house, August 16. Pennies for friendship were taken up.

Mrs. J. P. Dunn and Mrs. F. L. Schenk were hostesses serving fruit punch and cookies. The meeting adjourned to meet at social, the evening of August 16 at community house.

LA MONTE PTA Met in Park

The La Monte Parent Teacher Association met at the La Monte Park Wednesday evening, July 13.

Mrs. Andy Berry, vice-president, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mr. Jerome Schenk. Mrs. Berry also gave a report on the lunch room. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Forbes were appointed as a committee to place lights in the park before the next meeting. Members present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gregory and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Berry and family, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Higgins, Bina and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Patton and Larry, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Files and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Adams and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lindaman and Jessie, Mrs. Eunice Scott and Miss Dora Angel.

Refreshments of watermelon and pie were served. The next meeting will be held at the LaMonte Park August 10. Cake and home made ice cream will be served. Each member is asked to bring table service.

Jailer and Wife Clean Up The County Jail, Serve Good Food

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Woolery, since taking over jailer and matron duties at the Pettis county jail last November, have eliminated all the unpleasant odors and insects that used to dwell there in the past, and have straightened it up the best they can with the present condition of the jail.

Right after election when they moved in, Mrs. Clark got the court's permission to wall paper and paint the inside of the living quarters. When this work was completed, the cell and jail quarters were cleaned, sprayed and now Mr. Woolery claims there isn't a bedbug or any other insect in the place.

The outside was cleaned up, and new signs were painted in the front. Visitors will not be in doubt as to where the jail is now, because a sign painted reads "County Jail."

Seems to Be Harmony

Prisoners seem to get along with Mr. Woolery and are satisfied with Mrs. Woolery's cooking. Their policy is "we are all human and should be treated alike, whether in jail or out."

Friday afternoon, a young man on vacation here from New York City, who asked that his name be withheld from the press, but would be willing to take an oath, if questioned, had this to say about the present condition of the jail following an inspection.

He said when he was a prisoner here in 1946 for breaking a parole from New York state, the food was rotten and he couldn't even take a bath because no soap was provided. He said there were bedbugs, cockroaches, and water dripped off the walls. The young man said he wouldn't mind living there at all now because it even smells clean.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senate Expenditures Committee
Should Investigate
White House Repair

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, July 25 — Of course, I don't like to write anything about General Harry Vaughan which might cause the president to call me an S.O.B. again.

Nevertheless, I do think that the Senate expenditures committee, now investigating the so-called "five per-centers" should take a careful look at something which is going on right under the president's own nose — namely, the repairing of his official abode, the White House.

Since this official abode is one which we all help to support and of which we are all proud, it would seem proper for the Senate to investigate how a friend of Gen. Harry Vaughan and of his lobbying sidekick, Col. James V. Hunt, should have been appointed to repair the White House — at a time when Hunt was trying to get a commission in connection with White House repair.

This friend is Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, retired, U. S. Army Engineers.

Gen. Edgerton has been a fine officer, and well qualified. But so also were Generals Alden Waitt and Herman Feldman, who were suspended from the army because they gave lobbyist James V. Hunt information on army contracts that the press and public couldn't get.

Officially, it is explained that General Edgerton was appointed by the White House repair commission, including Senators McKellar of Tennessee, Martin of Pennsylvania, with Representatives Raboult of Michigan and Keefe of Wisconsin.

Moreover, there are all sorts of ways to skin a cat in Washington and a Senate committee, looking beneath the surface, might unearth some interesting facts.

Decorating White House Interior

It would discover, for instance, that lobbyist Hunt has a client, Miss Dorothy Draper, who is an interior decorator desirous of getting a contract to redecorate the White House. If she gets the job, she pays a commission to Vaughan's friend, Hunt. No wonder Hunt wanted a friend in charge of White House repairs.

The Senate would also discover that Gen. Edgerton, the man now in charge of White House repairs, admits — as he did to this column — that both General Vaughan and lobbyist Hunt are his friends. He also admits that he knew about Miss Draper, the decorator.

It would also discover that both Vaughan and Hunt pulled wires on an earlier occasion to get General Edgerton appointed to the key spot of War Assets administrator. This is the job which had control over selling surplus war material and was for a long time a gravy source for lobbyists.

Vaughan and friend Hunt failed to get Gen. Edgerton appointed to this bonanza-dispensing job, but they did have another key man inside the War Assets administration — none other than one of Vaughan's and the president's old cronies from Battery D.

Inside War Assets

Their friend is Joe Major, who, incidentally, flew in the president's private airplane with Harry Vaughan and Harry Truman down to the battery's 35th reunion in Little Rock, Ark., last month.

Joe Major, when queried, was quite frank in admitting that he receives telephone calls all the time from Harry Vaughan. Major denied that Vaughan was pressuring him, but admitted that the calls came to him while in his office and while in charge of getting rid of surplus government property. Major estimated he had received about 500 phone calls from Vaughan and in addition visited Vaughan about once a week at his home.

Major was also quite frank in admitting that lobbyist Hunt had asked him to use his influence to get Gen. Edgerton appointed to the top job of dispensing surplus property.

Joe Major also knows John Maragon well. In fact, he refers to him as John.

"I accepted John because he was a friend of Harry's," Major explained.

Ex-Kansas City Bootblack

That raises another interesting chapter which the Senate could probe with profit — namely, the War Assets lobbying of Vaughan's friend friend of both Truman and Vaughan and seemed Maragon, the ex-Kansas City bootblack, ex-federal narcotics agent, who poses as the great to prove it by accompanying them to the Potsdam conference along with Stalin and Churchill.

It would be important for the public to know just how much backing Maragon got from the president's military aide in his wirepulling with war assets to get some of Uncle Sam's low-priced surplus property.

Working on behalf of a mysterious Englishman named George Dawson and of a British-backed company called "Trans-America Traders, Inc." Maragon bought some government turbine generators for $30,200, some Solinium rectifiers for charging airplane batteries for $10,000 and some welding panels for $1,000. Later, Maragon claimed he got stung on the generators and tried to back out.

Maragon's group also tried to buy the Gary armor plate factory, in Gary, Ind., until the army withdrew it from the market. But the biggest trouble with Maragon came over some coal-mining machinery which war assets sold the Austrian government. Maragon wanted this machinery in the worst way and pulled various wires to get it.

He even claimed that the war assets auctioneer had signalled to the Austrians by scratching his nose in order to let them have the machinery.

Maragon is the man who lobbied for the David Bennett Perfumery company and entertained both Harry Truman and Harry Vaughan on the company's yacht. Through the reported intervention of Gen. Vaughan, lobbyist Hunt temporarily took over the Bennett company's lobbying work, though Maragon still continue with Bennett.

It would be highly interesting, however, if the Senate should investigate just how an ex-bootlegger was able to take special trips to Europe immediately after the war on perfume business, at a time when few Americans were permitted in former war theatres.

British Courts Severe in Passing on Contempt Cases

By Dewitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's sensational "Vampire" murder case, which has resulted in the sentencing of John George Haigh to the gallows, provides an excellent example of how the scales of justice are balanced in England.

After his arrest, Haigh boasted that he had killed nine persons in four years and had drunk of their blood. However, he was tried only on a charge of slaying Mrs. Olive Durant-Deacon, a wealthy widow, and dissolving her body in acid. During his detention on this charge, Scotland Yard investigated the disappearance of a half a dozen Britons believed dissolved in acid by a "Vampire" slayer. But Haigh never was charged with these other killings.

While the case was in this status the London Daily Mirror, which claims the world circulation record for any daily (4,000,000), was brought into court on a charge of publishing an article calling Haigh a vampire and saying he had committed several murders. English law prohibits publication of any information which might prejudice the trial of a defendant, and the Mirror was found guilty. The paper was fined $40,000 and an editor was sentenced to three months in prison.

Not only is the law rigid regarding newspaper publication in such cases, but not until after conviction is the prosecution permitted even to mention crimes which the accused may have committed prior to the case in hand. The prisoner may be a notorious criminal with many previous convictions, but heaven help anyone who points to this.

English courts are noted for operating expeditiously and on a common-sense basis. The judge—a very dignified figure in his great gray wig and gown—is truly the master of ceremonies, who frequently intervenes in a way which might result in a mistrial in some other countries.

The judge's job is to see that the truth comes out, and if the lawyers don't uncover the facts, the justice does it for them. For instance, I have seen a judge in a murder trial turn to the jury and say:

Evidently Was "Lying"

"You may disregard entirely the testimony of this witness. He obviously is lying."

I also have seen a judge lean over and ask a witness a leading question which resulted in the conviction of the accused. The defense offered no objection.

This paternal attitude of the judges often produces dry humor from the bench, and England through the generations has been famous for her witty justices. During my many years in London the newspapers almost daily published quips from the bench. Here's one that has stuck in my mind:

A witness had just testified that he went into the elephant house at the London zoo to make a telephone call. The judge inquired solemnly: "A trunk call, I presume."

In England the proceedings in the jury room are secret. That is, the only fact made public is the verdict. There is no disclosure of how the verdict was reached, or what if any argument there may have been in reaching it. Once a verdict of guilty has been given in a murder case, the condemned is sentenced to be hanged just twenty-one days from date. This gives time for an appeal if the defense wants it.

Speaking of paternalism from the bench, you also find it in America. I encountered an instance of it in the first murder trial I had to cover as a newspaperman. I was young and just a cub, very anxious to do a good job. Some testimony came up which seemed to me to be damaging to the defendant, but I wasn't sure. Therefore at the noon recess I went to the gray haired judge and stated my problem, with a request that he help me out.

I shall never forget the expression of surprise which swept over his face, to give way to a humorous twitching at the corners of his mouth.

"My boy," he replied in kindly tone, "a justice isn't permitted to discuss a case outside the proceedings. However, if you study that evidence you may come to the conclusion that it is damaging to the defendant."

So They Say

I cannot see how one could conceive of a military man in the United States becoming a dictator. I do not believe that any group has the good of our country and the firmness of its government more at heart than soldiers, sailors and airmen.—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff.

—O—

Certain types of traffic violations are a form of hoodlumism on our highways. Sitting at the wheel of a motor car these hoodlums are potential killers. Far too often they carry bad manners to the point of manslaughter.—Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, chairman, President's Council on Safety.

—O—

The public should stop thinking that atomic power is around the corner. If it develops at all into an important industrial thing, it will do so many years in the future.—Atomic scientist Enrico Fermi.

Undulant Fever Spread by Animals Hard to Diagnose

BY EDWIN PO JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Brucellosis, or undulant fever, is an important disease in human beings. About 4000 cases are reported in the United States every year. There are undoubtedly many more not reported because the chronic form of the disease is exceedingly difficult to diagnose and even many acute cases may not be recognized.

In a typical acute attack there is fever, a chilly feeling, loss of weight, excessive sweating, headaches and pains in the muscles. At times a slight rash on the skin is observed. The fever tends to rise and fall in a wavelike manner, which gives the disease its common name of undulant fever.

Symptoms of the disease are not always typical, however, and therefore many cases slip by without being recognized. In the chronic, long-lasting types diagnosis may be particularly difficult.

Infects Animals

Several animals can be infected with brucellosis, especially hogs, cattle, sheep and goats. Until recently it was thought that almost all human infections came from drinking the milk or eating meat from infested animals. Although infections do arise in this way, there are many cases which have started from direct contact with the meat of slaughtered animals.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS
BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

QUESTION: Do sclerosis of the mastoid cells and chronic otitis media mean the same thing?

ANSWER: They do not mean exactly the same thing but they are very likely both the results of the same chronic infection involving the deeper portions of the ear and the mastoid processes lying back of it.

Men Will Never Understand
Some Things About Women

Some things a woman just can't explain to a man so that he will understand!

Why she is so upset when she goes to a party and meets another woman wearing a dress exactly like the one she has on.

Why she instinctively distrusts some women, knowing without being able to explain why they aren't to be trusted.

How she can have a closet full of clothes and still not have a thing to wear to a certain party.

How she can satisfy herself as to what another woman is like in just one meeting.

How she can like another woman and still enjoy pointing out her defects.

Why she can have a lone man to dinner with a minimum of work and worry — but has to give the whole house a good going over and work out an elaborate menu if he is going to bring his wife along.

How she can tell when another woman means a remark to be caty — even though it is worded like a compliment.

Why it irritates her to have her husband too enthusiastic over a meal cooked by another woman.

Visitors' Arrival Sends Her Scouring

Why, no matter how well the house looks, she always has to scour around picking up and plumping pillows, etc., when a couple telephones that they are going to "drop in."

Why she'll work harder to impress a woman she doesn't like than one she does.

Why she accepts invitations she doesn't want to accept, thereby obligating herself to entertain people she considers bores.

Why she'll dress up in her best clothes, hire a baby sitter and

Side Glances

RUDY removed his cap and sat facing her. He wore a thin white sweatshirt under his apron; his powerful and hairy arms were bare; a strapped watch accentuated his lean wrist; his nails were short, well cared for, healthy.

He lifted his cup of steaming coffee with both hands and something in the gesture rang another bell in Mrs. Malone's memory.

"(Wait!) she cried aloud. "I'm remembering! A movie a long time ago."

"You're getting warmer," Rudy interrupted harshly. "But what do you say we drop the subject?"

"That's fine with me. But I do want the truth about my boss. After all, I'd like to know where I'm going. And why. If there's anything crooked about this deal, I'd better know it. I've told you all about myself. Now just exactly who is this Mrs. Everson, and who's the foreign gentleman with the bracelet? And why this million dollar outfit?"

Rudy and Victor exchanged a glance. The look might have meant anything.

"I can tell you the story," Rudy began. And then hesitated.

"I'm all ears," Mrs. Malone said.

"YOU don't have to believe anything I tell you," Rudy continued. "I'll give it to you straight, and you can take it or leave it."

He rubbed his head reflectively. "To go back a ways: Mrs. Everson wasn't always rich. She started out as a waitress in Oklahoma and married a man much older than herself. I figure she had her eye on some old leases he held. Anyway his wells came in."

"Lucky, wasn't she?"

Rudy shook his head.

"No. She wasn't. They moved West and built a little house on top of a hill near Los Angeles. Pappy was a millionaire, all right, but he turned out to be ignorant and jealous and tight as the dickens. She did all her own housework, made her own clothes, never went anywhere. But she stayed with it. Twenty years. I guess she figured he'd die first, and then she'd have her fling."

"That's what I call a smart woman," Mrs. Malone said. "If you like them smart, I don't."

"You've got to hand it to her. She was patient . . . and faithful. She never let on she was unhappy, and she kept herself young. Not so bad! Then the old man died off—that was three years ago—and left her his millions."

"It wasn't in the papers."

"No. She didn't want publicity. She was after position. A real place in the social sun. I know, because I was one of her first employees. I answered an ad in the paper, and here I am: driver, mechanic, bodyguard and father confessor to a rich dame."

Mrs. Malone inclined her head toward the Filipino.

"And Victor?"

"She stole Victor from a cock-

drive across town to go to a tea for several hundred women, spend 15 minutes and then turn around and come home.

How she can tell at a glance whether or not another woman's blonde hair is dyed — and why she cares whether it is or not. Especially why she feels so triumphant when she announces it is a dye job.

Why she'll go to such lengths to find out a woman's true age if she suspects she is lying about her years.

Why it makes her so mad to have her husband criticize her in any way, however trivial, in front of another woman.

REFUGE

By Mildred Crain and Harwood White

THE STORY: Mrs. Malone, a widow, has become the cook on a strange caravan bound for a mysterious destination. The caravan consists of a gigantic trailer pulled by a truck and driven by a smaller trailer pulled by a sedan which Victor, the Filipino who speaks like a college professor, drives. Everything is efficient and well planned, but already Mrs. Malone is beginning to wonder what kind of people she is working for. Her employer is Mrs. Everson, middle aged, but still good looking and who has the mannerisms of an actress. With her is a guest, the Marchese Dolencina, who speaks with a foreign accent. Even Rudy, the chauffeur, seems strangely familiar to Mrs. Malone. "You sure carry civilization with you," she tells Rudy. "That was the idea," he replies.

"I can tell you the story," Rudy began. And then hesitated.

"I'm all ears," Mrs. Malone said.

"YOU don't have to believe anything I tell you," Rudy continued. "I'll give it to you straight, and you can take it or leave it."

He rubbed his head reflectively. "To go back a ways: Mrs. Everson wasn't always rich. She started out as a waitress in Oklahoma and married a man much older than herself. I figure she had her eye on some old leases he held. Anyway his wells came in."

"Lucky, wasn't she?"

Rudy shook his head.

"No. She wasn't. They moved West and built a little house on top of a hill near Los Angeles. Pappy was a millionaire, all right, but he turned out to be ignorant and jealous and tight as the dickens. She did all her own housework, made her own clothes, never went anywhere. But she stayed with it. Twenty years. I guess she figured he'd die first, and then she'd have her fling."

"That's what I call a smart woman," Mrs. Malone said. "If you like them smart, I don't."

"You've got to hand it to her. She was patient . . . and faithful. She never let on she was unhappy, and she kept herself young. Not so bad! Then the old man died off—that was three years ago—and left her his millions."

"It wasn't in the papers."

"No. She didn't want publicity. She was after position. A real place in the social sun. I know, because I was one of her first employees. I answered an ad in the paper, and here I am: driver, mechanic, bodyguard and father confessor to a rich dame."

Mrs. Malone inclined her head toward the Filipino.

"And Victor?"

"She stole Victor from a cock-

tail bar in Beverly Hills. The perfect houseboy. Unattached. Needs no sleep. Craves no personal satisfaction."

IT was on the tip of her tongue to ask: "How come he talks like a professor?" But she checked herself. She must have made some sign, however, because Rudy smiled, a bit derisively she thought.

"I know what you're thinking," he said. "Tell the lady, Victor. You graduated from Columbia, didn't you?"

"Yes. I did," Victor said.

"That explains it," said Mrs. Malone. "But why do you work as a houseboy—surely you have enough education to do something more?"

"It is not bad work," explained Victor. "The pay is excellent."

"Some day, when he has collected his stake," Rudy continued, "he'll go back home. Meantime he doesn't care much what he does or where he goes . . ."

Mrs. Malone met his eyes squarely.

"It happens I do care. Where are we going?"

He hesitated a moment, stirring the coffee in his cup, creating a small vortex of bubbles.

"The story is," he said at last, "we're on our way to a place of safety."

"I don't get you," she said.

"It's a long story," Rudy said. "Why don't you let it go at that? Everyone wants safety and security. Mrs. Everson thinks she knows where to find it."

"Safety from what?" Mrs. Malone asked.

"It's not an easy thing to explain."

"You might try. I'm fairly intelligent."

Rudy sipped his coffee.

Daughter of Sedalian Visits Lepers' Colony Near Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. O'Donnell, 512 East Third street, have received a letter from their daughter, Sister Grace Dolores, in which she told of a trip by plane to the island of Molokai from Honolulu where she is stationed. The trip was made by her, two others nuns and a priest for the purpose of visiting the small settlement of Kalanipala where the lepers' colony is located.

Kalanipala, she said, is an isolated place on one side of which is a high mountain, almost straight up and on the other three sides the ocean. It can be reached only by plane.

It is now a United States hospital which is taken care of by eleven Franciscan sisters.

The chapel was built for the colony by Father Damion, a Belgian, who was buried there and later his body was taken up and sent, with the altar of the church, back to Belgium.

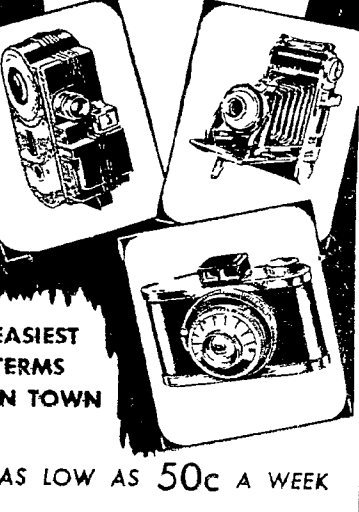

The three Sisters were shown the bell of the chapel and permitted to ring it, but what they did not know was that the ringing of the bell would bring the inhabitants of the settlement to see them because it was a signal that there were visitors in their community.

On one side of the road were cemeteries, Catholic, Protestant, Japanese, Chinese, all nationalities and all faiths, each separate.

Sister Grace Dolores said that there were terrible sights among those ill with the disease but that now there were only 250 persons there where at one time there had been as high as a thousand.

Many Activities For Girl Scouts In Camp at Lake Miniwanca

Barbara Conway, who is a member of the staff at Camp Miniwanca, Shelly, Mich., writes of the following activities:

"The girls went to Stormy Lake and had a Venetian Sing. One group stayed up on the hillside while another went out in boats on the lake. These with boats had Japanese lanterns and formed a circle on the water. One group would sing and then the other. We were pretty eager that night to guess, because we decided to climb Old Baldy, from the steep side.

It is a young mountain and goes straight up. We put out shoes on our hands and crawled up. On our way home we stopped to chat with some of the leaders who had built a fire on the beach close to camp and ate toasted marshmallows.

Recently we went to Silver Lake and went dune scooting. These little cars (like jeeps) take you for a "roller coaster ride" over the dunes, really thrilling. They go straight up in places and then suddenly take a sharp dive down a steep embankment so that you practically fly out the top.

Last night the boys had the Miniwanca Square Gardens boxing match in the Council Circle with a built up platform, a loud announcer and phonograph music. They had the "no-see um" weight, the "Fly Weight," the light heavy weight and the heavy weight. The girls had a carnival in the Tipi. The following night the little campers put on the operetta, "The Mikado," for the evening's entertainment.

The following day, we gathered flowers while on a trip to Silver Lake for Miss Stafford's flower arranging class. We found some of the prettiest green and red leaves with little white berries on them, so we gathered quite a few. Yes—it was poison ivy.

I have met friends of my cousin Ann Lindholm of Webster Groves (Hazel McClure's daughter) Ollie Mae Hoffman, Jean Callis and Aunt Lottie (Mrs. George Batlow of Pittsburg, Penn.) and friends of Central College students.

There are 200 boy and 300 girl campers here, this month for the younger group. Next week, the older boys and older girls will be here.

Truman Calls For $1,450,000,000 to go For Foreign Arms

said that is the maximum load they can carry without disrupting their economic recovery. But that, he insisted, is not "enough to furnish these nations the protection they need."

Limited Dollar Aid
Mr. Truman said it does not give them enough protection partly because they cannot divert more of their resources from civilian recovery and partly because they cannot make some of the things they need. So, the president said:

"I recommend that we supply these countries with assistance of three types:

"First, a limited amount of dollar aid to enable them to increase their own production of military items without impairing their efforts for economic recovery;

"Second, the direct transfer of certain essential items of military equipment, and

"Third, the assistance of experts in the production and use of military equipment and the training of personnel.

"Such a program will enable these countries to acquire the elements necessary to their defense without hampering their recovery."

He said the aim of the proposed plan is to help the European nations create "mobile defensive forces" so that in the shortest possible time they will be capable of "maintaining internal order and resisting the initial phases of external aggression." He declared: "At the present time, the military power which is the greatest deterrent to aggression is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles away from Europe. It must be made clear that the United States has no intention, in the event of aggression, of allowing the peoples of western Europe to be overrun before its own power can be brought to bear. The program of military assistance now proposed is a tangible assurance of our purpose in this regard."

Aid Vital to Security
The United States, he said, can bear the cost of military aid only for those countries "vital to our national security where the danger is greatest and where the ability to pay for military equipment is least."

Mr. Truman said $1,450,000,000 he is asking would provide funds to be spent or committed during the next 12 months and to be delivered over the next two years.

"The recommended program covers the most pressing current needs for military aid," he said. "How long it may be necessary to continue military aid depends on many unpredictable factors. Our burden will undoubtedly lessen as our program for peace brings its returns," he continued.

"Advancing economic recovery will enable the free nations to maintain a larger share of the expense of their own defense measures. Progress toward a peaceful settlement of international differences will reduce the threat of violence and lighten the cost of preparedness. Ultimately, when the peaceful principles of the United Nations are fully realized, the protection of the peace may be assigned to the security forces of that organization."

Another Big Storm
Okinawa, just getting over a savage typhoon, was alerted to draw that another big storm was sweeping across the Pacific.

Winds estimated up to 150 miles an hour swept across U. S. military installations on the island Saturday. The army said a 7-year-old American girl was killed and 16 Americans were injured in the typhoon.

There were reports in Germany of a major shift in American personnel. The plan, according to military government sources, calls for the movement of a large number of Americans from Berlin to Frankfurt and Bonn. Frankfurt is the business heart of the British-American zone and Bonn is the capital of the West German federal republic.

A Belgrade dispatch reviewing Yugoslavia's diplomatic position said Premier Marshal Tito, the first Communist ruler to say "No" to Prime Minister Stalin, seems to be still firmly in the saddle.

More than a year ago the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau) blasted Tito for Nationalist deviation from what the Kremlin regards as orthodox Communism.

There have been border incidents, shootings, sabotage and spies in Yugoslavia, but the country appears to be weathering the economic and strategic strains resulting from the Cominform attack.

Near Hundred at Annual Picnic

The annual picnic was given Sunday by the Democrat-Capital company for employees and their families at Knob Noster State Park, with about one hundred persons attending.

A fried chicken dinner was served at noon.

The afternoon was spent in swimming, hiking, horseshoe pitching, baseball and conversation.

Secretary Snyder Back From Europe

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder returned by plane early today from a three-week business trip to Europe and the Middle East.

Snyder is expected to report soon to President Truman on the trip, highlighted by conferences with British leaders on the financial-economic crisis in Britain.

Ernie Pyle in New Cemetery

Mrs. Heber Paige, 623 East Thirteenth street, received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Elliott, wife of Col. W. S. Elliott, who is in command of the United States Army at Honolulu, in which she told of the new cemetery where Ernie Pyle has been buried.

The letter was written the day before the new cemetery was officially opened and, Mrs. Elliott wrote:

"Tomorrow I go up to the famous Punch Bowl which is a huge extinct volcano that evidently blew its top off many, many centuries ago and has filled up with earth. They have made a very beautiful cemetery right up in the center of the crater and tomorrow they will bury cute little old Ernie Pyle, who wrote such wonderful things about the war. He was killed by a sniper's bullet on Iwo Jima just as the war was almost over. Now they are bringing him back to bury in an American cemetery. It really marks the opening officially of this new cemetery which it quite a show place."

Funeral of W. Neuman

Palbearers will be: H. E. Logan R. V. Hutchings, D. F. Wasson, W. R. Reicke, R. E. Mullen and W. E. Rider.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park cemetery.

No Bombs in Aid Program Sending Arms

But no such easy sailing appeared in prospect for the arms program.

Details of the program would not be written out in law as drafted by the administration. Only broad assignments of authority would be given the president along with responsibility for carrying out the details himself.

Of the $1,450,000,000 which the proposed law would let Mr. Truman spend, the booklet says most would go to western Europe — "an area whose importance to our security has been demonstrated in two world wars."

Tying the military assistance proposal directly to the North Atlantic treaty, the state department said the program would "complement" the treaty by carrying out its principals of "self help and mutual aid." Of the appeal for arms made by western European members of the treaty several months ago, the department added:

"Their defense is our defense and will continue to be of deep concern to us as long as their military weakness invites aggression."

Atlantic Pact Signed Today

short circuit demands in Congress for a less ambitious program.

Views May Differ
Two Republican Senators who have played an important part in drafting this country's bi-partisan foreign policy had served advance notice on the administration that its views may not coincide with theirs.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, announced over the weekend he favored a "stop-gap" arms program—one to be carried out until grand strategy can take shape under the Atlantic pact.

And Senator Dulles of New York, a top adviser on foreign policy matters, flatly called the $1,450,000,000 figure "too big" even before he entered the Senate.

Actually the value of the proposed foreign arms aid would approach $1,825,000,000 the State Department disclosed.

The extra value is in "excess" U. S. military stocks, proposed to be sent to America's friends abroad with no charge other than the cost of belting it ready for use, and handling.

About $450,000,000 worth of such material, the department estimated, can be provided with only about $75,000,000 in rehabilitation costs charged against the program.

Under the program, military aid would go mainly to eight European nations and to about a half dozen others scattered all the way from Europe to the Pacific ocean.

BIRTHS

Daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Biggs, 308 North Grand avenue, at 8:55 o'clock Saturday night at Bothwell hospital. Weight, Eight pounds, one ounce.

Real Estate Board to Meet
The Central Missouri Real Estate Board will have a meeting at the Old Homestead at 7:00 o'clock Wednesday night, at which time Joe Davis, partner of the Davis-Brown-Plymouth-Dodge Garage, of Kansas City, will be the guest speaker.

Sedalia Team Meets J. C. in Zone Finals

Winner of Tonight's Game Will go to State Tournament

The Sedalia Junior Legion Post 16 team and Jefferson City Junior Legion will meet at Kirksville tonight at 8:15 in a playoff contest to determine the zone championship in an American Legion Junior League Baseball Tournament. The winner of tonight's game will represent the zone in the state tournament at Springfield, scheduled to start Friday.

The Jefferson City team defeated Sedalia Sunday night in a pitcher's duel by a 2 to 1 score. Brown went all the way for Sedalia, with Neidholdt behind the plate. Brown allowed four hits and struck out nine, while Plogstedt allowed five hits and struck out 19 Sedalia batters. Pashal was behind the plate for Jefferson City.

The first run of the game, came in the seventh inning, when Jefferson scored an unearned run. Sedalia tied the score in the eighth when Morgan singled and stole second base, and Walker doubled to drive Morgan in for the lone run. Jefferson City broke the tied score in the last half of the ninth when Pashal, Jefferson City catcher, singled, followed by two outs, then was drove home by a double.

Win and Lose

Jefferson City and Sedalia each have lost one game, and Jefferson City has won three, Sedalia two. Jefferson City defeated St. Charles 2-1; and Kirksville 3-2 in a game that went 13 innings, Saturday night.

Jefferson City lost to Kirksville, Friday night, and Sedalia to Jefferson City, Sunday night.

The following Sedalians have been staying at the Travelers Hotel in Kirksville, since Friday: Ruffin of, Morgan 3b, Walker ss, Holst lf, McCrary rf, Neidholdt, c, Nold c Broadbuss lb, Shawver 2b, Brown, Ray, Schultz, Nehl and Johnson, pitchers, Arnold, utility infielder, Larry Mines, bat boy, G. Ray, coach and Cecil Glenn, manager.

Saints Lead American Assn.

By the Associated Press

St. Paul remained one-half game ahead of Indianapolis in the steaming American Association pennant race today as both teams split Sunday doubleheaders.

The Saints captured a 3-0 opener from Kansas City on Phil Maugstad's seven-hitter. It was his 14th victory. The Blues rebounded for an 8-6 decision although needing four pitchers to do it. Aldon Wilkie, No. 3, got the victory while Morrie Martin, fifth St. Paul hurler, was the loser.

Indianapolis shaded Columbus 7-6, but dropped the nightcap 9-4. Minneapolis fortified fourth place with a sweep over second place Milwaukee. Jack Harshman and Charlie Workman drove in eight runs in the opener as the Millers breezed to a 12-6 count. They took the nightcap 7-6.

Louisville skipped into sixth place over Kansas City by a one-half game margin by trimming last-place Toledo twice. The Colonels blasted 17 hits to take the starter 12-1. They took the second 4-2.

Cardinals Into League Lead By Blasting Dodgers 14-1

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

If you value your life don't dare mention to a Brooklyn rooter that Stan Musial is having an off year.

Should you be lucky enough to be conscious when he gets through with you, he'll painstakingly prove that the only reason that the St. Louis Cardinals are in first place today is that they own title to Stan (The Man) Musial.

You may argue that Musial, hitting only .299; is far below his normal batting gait. The Brooklyn fan will counter with a blow-by-blow description of Musial's one-man wreckage of Dodger pitching this year.

He'll first point out that Stan was the big gun in the Cards' 14-1 blasting of the Dodgers yesterday which shot them into the league lead by a half game over the Books. In that game, Musial completed a batting cycle—a single, double, triple and home run. He also batted in four runs.

But the fan won't stop there. He'll show you where Musial has been the ringleader in nearly all of the nine games the Cards have won from Brooklyn this year. He'll recount from painful memory the 24 hits in 53 times at bat that Musial has collected against Dodger pitching, which adds up to a .453 batting mark. At Ebbets Field, his average is a cool .533.

Collected 16 Hits Off Newcombe

Every regular except Joe Garagiola hit safely yesterday as the Cards collected 16 hits against Don Newcombe, Paul Minner and Carl Erskine. Newcombe failed to retire a man as the Cards regained four on him and his successor for four runs in the first inning. In the meantime Howie Pollet breezed in his 13th victory.

The New York Yankees rallied gamely to come from behind and defeat the Detroit Tigers, 6-3, in 11 innings. As a result Cleveland's 7-5 and 5-2 sweep of a doubleheader from Washington cut only a half game from the Yankees' margin which is now four games.

Cleveland's Bob Lemon relied upon his bat to register his 12th victory against four losses. The Indians righthander belted two homers in the opener. First baseman Mickey Vernon was the Tribe's big gun in the nightcap with two homers.

Browns Split Doubleheader

The third place Boston Red Sox dropped eight and a half lengths of the pace, dividing a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns. The Browns eked out a 9-8 victory in the opener. Jack Kramer gained his first victory of the year as the Red Sox won the second, 8-4.

The Philadelphia Athletics swept a twin bill from the Chicago White Sox, 7-2 and 6-4 for their fourth and fifth victories in their last 17 games.

Pittsburgh came from behind twice to sweep a doubleheader from the Boston Braves, 4-3 and 7-6. The Pirates spotted the Braves a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the opener, but caught up with Johnny Sain in the fourth and beat him in the seventh. Dino Restelli's first hit in 14 times at bat scored Johnny Hop with the winning run.

The Cincinnati Reds took a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phils, 10-1 and 4-3. A single by Dixie Howell pushed over the Reds' winning run in the ninth of the nightcap.

The cellar-shackled Chicago Cubs knocked off the New York Giants twice, 5-3 and 6-1 to put a fitting climax to the celebration of "Frankie Frisch Day" in the Polo Grounds.

Holcomb Beat Marshall In State Tourney

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25—(P)—Holcomb blanked Marshall 3 to 0 in the Missouri semi-pro baseball tournament here last night, with hurler Lloyd Fisher turning in a no-hitter.

The victory puts Holcomb in the fourth round of the winner's bracket.

Only one game was played last night.

TRENTON, July 25—(P)—The zone championship of the American Legion Junior baseball tournament was won last night by the Grover Metzger Post of Kansas City.

The Kansas City team defeated St. Joseph 3 to 2.

Yesterday afternoon, the Kansas City team downed St. Joseph 8 to 4 in the double elimination tournament.

New World's Record Set In Power Boat Race

BUSH RIVER, Md., July 25—(P)—A hair-raising 92-mile an hour run by Joe Van Blerck, set a new world record in the Bush River yacht club regatta yesterday.

The American Powerboat Association sanctioned the record.

Van Blerck's mark—92.308 mph. to be exact—improved by four miles the former standard for seven-meter boats in a mile trial. The Freeport, N. Y., pilot did it the hard way, steering his Aljo the last 300 yards with a hole in its bottom and water gushing into the cockpit.

But the manifold manufacturer had his vessel repaired in time for the day's feature event, the Arundel free-for-all, and won the five-mile race with an average of 62 mph.

Complaint Filed Against Locke

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 25—(P)—

The Professional Golfers' Association announced today it has blacklisted Bobby Locke for any PGA sponsored event.

The PGA's tournament committee said its unanimous decision against the South African golfer was "deemed necessary" because of his failure to keep commitments at exhibitions and tournaments.

The announcement was made by George Schneider, the association's tournament bureau manager. It said the committee made a careful study of all the facts and felt the action was necessary to protect the sponsors and maintain the tournament schedule.

Schneider declined to make public names of those persons who had filed the complaints.

"There were numerous complaints filed against Mr. Locke," he said, "but the committee prefers not to disclose any specific ones. Actually, from time to time, different things have entered the picture to make the action necessary."

Blues Drubbed K. C. Club Sunday 20-1

This Was 10th Home Victory For Sedalia Team

The Sedalia Blues went on a hitting spree Sunday afternoon at Housel Park to win their tenth home game by downing Southside Athletics of Kansas City 20 to 1.

Turcheck started for the Blues, but was relieved in the fifth by Bobbie Rapp, who pitched brilliant ball, striking out 10 batters and allowed on walk. Hale started for Kansas City, and was relieved in the fourth by Hanavon, who finished the game.

Slocum and Barr homered for the Blues with Clocum, Weller and Barr, each getting 3 for 5. Lindstrom was the Kansas City leading hitter, receiving two for four.

The game was full of errors for the Kansas Citians from start to finish. Manager Hanavon of the K. C. club said after defeating the Richs club at Kansas City by a score of 6 to 1, he was surprised to be defeated by such a large margin Sunday. The manager asked for a return game.

Scheduled Games

Wednesday night, the Blues journey to Mendon for a return game. Sedalia was defeated there earlier in the season by a 5 to 4 score. Sunday, the Blues play Raymore at Housel Park. Monday, August 1, the team will go to Slater, where they are to meet the Marshall Redbirds.

The Blues have games scheduled with the following clubs here: Cash Bargain Lumber, Centropolis Transfer Heart of America All-Stars, K. C. Oilers, Mayview Merchants, and Fairmount Merchants.

These clubs are well known among baseball fans, and are expected to give the Blues plenty of tough competition.

Sedalia Merchants Defeated Carrollton

In a pitcher's battle at Carrollton Sunday night, the Sedalia Merchants defeated Carrollton by a score of 6-3 in a softball game.

Norman Thompson, on the mound for Sedalia, gave up four hits and struck out 12. R. Plackmeyer of Carrollton gave up six hits and struck out 12 batters, but walked six.

The Sedalia team drew first blood of the game by scoring two runs in the third inning, and four in the sixth. Carrollton pushed across their three runs in the seventh inning.

Paul Evans was the leading hitter of the game, getting two for three.

The Merchants have now played 19 games this season, and have won all of them with the exception of three.

Results of Western Association Teams

By the Associated Press

The fifth place Topeka Owls have almost scrambled into the first division of the Western Association.

The Owls knocked over the third place Muskogee Reds 10-6 and 6-2 last night, and 4-0 Saturday and are just a half game behind Joplin.

Fort Smith and Joplin failed to gain ground. They split two doubleheaders. Fort Smith garnered 15 hits off three pitchers in seven innings to take the opener last night 12-1. Both teams played errorless ball in that tilt, but the last game went awry. Joplin counted three runs in the eighth inning to take the nightcap 11-9 as Fort Smith committed eight errors and the Miners three.

It took 11 innings for Salina to beat Leavenworth last night 10-7. The score was tied at 5-all at the end of the ninth.

At St. Joseph the Cardinals maintained their perfect record against Hutchinson on the home field. 10-1 last night and 10-5 Saturday.

Three-game series will be started tonight by Leavenworth at Salina and St. Joseph at Hutchinson. The other clubs have an open date for travel.

Hainline Won Men's Singles in Tennis

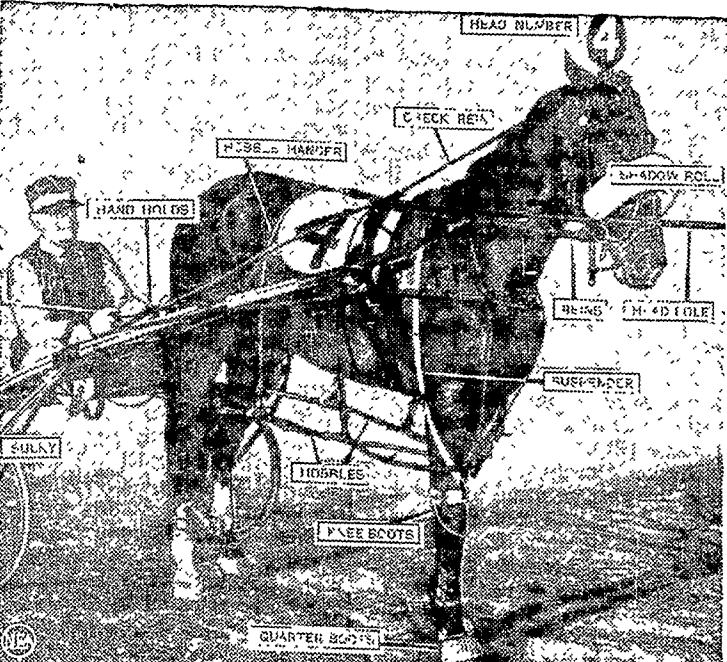

IOWA CITY, Ia., July 25—(P)—Dr. Richard Hainline, Rock Island, Ill., defeated Bill Miller of Kansas City 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 yesterday to win the men's singles title in the Missouri Valley Tennis tournament.

Miller, fourth seeded, Saturday defeated second seeded Lucien Barbour of Winfield, Kas., 4-6, 6-11, 9. Hainline had advanced to the finals with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Kirke Mechem, Jr., of Topeka, Kas.

Doris Poppel of Des Moines, seeded fourth, bested second seeded Mrs. Lucile Davidson of Lee's Summit, Mo., 9-7, 2-6, 6-3, to take the women's singles crown yesterday.

Dr. Hainline and Len Prosser, Mission, Kas., captures the men's doubles with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Ward Parker and Bob Ziervogel of St. Louis.

Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Nora Prosser, Mission, Kas., turned back Miss Poppel and Doris Jensen of Des Moines 6-2, 0-6, 6-4, for the women's doubles title.

'Trash Fish' are Problems Affecting Every Fisherman

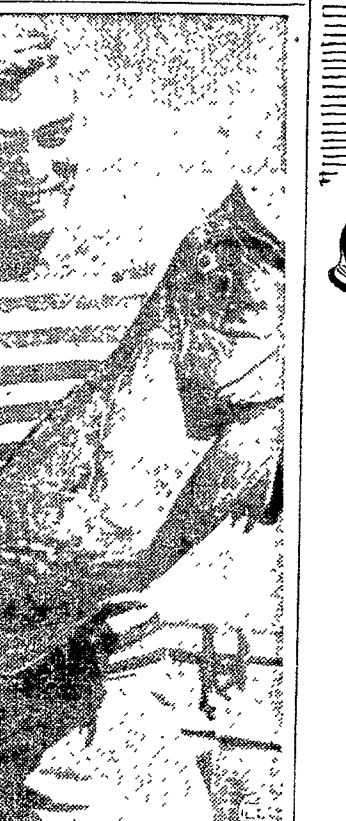

One of the most perplexing problems confronting the Conservation Commission is the problem of the "trash" or rough fish. Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of the Fisheries section of the commission, said in a recent article that the rough fish problem affects each and every type of fisherman and his catch, no matter what he is angling for.

There are many conflicting arguments and many sides taken in the innumerable controversies about rough fish. Yet many of these neglected fishes make fine eating. Some furnish sport and are sought by the angling public while others are considered undesirable and are believed to be harmful to the fisheries resources in general.

Rough Fish Take Over

As fishing waters deteriorate from land and water use practices, the more hardy and more prolific rough fish move in, taking over where the more selective game fish cannot "take it." The reduction of the game fish tends to remove nature's best tool in maintaining the intended balance of the fish population. As the game fish decrease in number, the game fish angler asks for more restrictive regulations for protecting the game fish and the result is often the over population of waters and stunting of fish because of an inadequate harvest.

All anglers are alike in one respect — they like to catch big fish. Some rough fish really get big and when hooked are rough on the fisherman. Tangle up with a 50-pound flathead cat and brother you've got a fight on your hands! The flathead, for instance can be taken by hook and line methods, using artificial bait such as spoons and spinners. It may

MOVE NORTH—George Ives holds a 17-pound black grouper the New Bern angler landed off Cape Lookout, N. C. More and more black groupers are being caught in the Gulf Stream near Morehead City. McKinney Won Medal Invitational

Hieronymus Placed Second in Central Missouri Tourney

Jim McKinney, Columbia's favorite golfing son, won the Central Missouri Invitational Medal Play Tournament, Sunday at the Jefferson City Country Club.

McKinney played the tricky Jefferson City layout in even par figures, ringing the bell for 14 pars and two birdies, while going over on only two holes. His 74 was two strokes better than Damon Hieronymus of Sedalia, who coped second place with a score of 76.

Hieronymus played a steady game, piling up 17 pars, having trouble on only the deceptive number six hole, whers his second shot caught the sand trap, just off the green. His shot out of the sand trap carried over the green into the rough. Then after his fourth shot left him about six feet from the cup, the putt failed to do down.

Cotton Finished Third

Phil Cotton of Columbia finished third with 77, while Henry Andrea of Jefferson City and Bob Sherman of Sedalia tied for fourth with rounds of 78.

Jimmy Curran of Jefferson City awarded the Stephen Ethall Memorial Trophy to McKinney. Prizes also were awarded to the five winners, including golf bags to McKinney and Hieronymus, while Cotton, Andrea and Sherman divided four dozen golf balls.

The tournament was witnessed by many interested spectators. The scores of the Sedalia players: Hieronymus 76, Sherman 78, D. Van Dyne 81, N. G. Patterson 85 and Gibson 88.

Golfers Head For Western Open Tourney

TOLEDO, O., July 25—(P)—Fifteen golf professionals headed today for St. Paul, Minn., and the Western Open tournament after winding up the 12th Inverness Invitational in which Chick Harbert of Detroit and Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., walked off with most of the swag.

Harbert and Hamilton spread eagled the field from Thursday through Sunday, losing but one match to finish with a rating of plus 19. This was 14 points ahead of their nearest opponents, Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., and Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C.

The plus 19 score gave them top money of $4,000. Additional awards for the most birdies (58) and tying for the best round of the tourney (an 11 under par 60) gave them a total of $4,450 to split.

is under-harvested in many waters and the commission is frequently called upon to remove carp from problem waters by many means.

Many other "trash" fish make fine eating if prepared properly, yet catch the misnomer of "unwanted." Lets face the fact — here are the rough fish, a fine harvestable crop. Many will furnish all the fight and sport an angler will ever wish for. Many will furnish that camp frying pan with the juiciest, most satisfying fried fish any gourmet could wish for.

Now are they really "trash fish?"

perform in a canvas casting tank fifty feet long by ten feet wide by one foot deep. Agent Frost appeared at the Fair last year where he had hundreds of satisfied "customers," his act being one of the most popular on the grounds.

Stocked With Plenty of Fish
The Commission's big sixteen-tank aquarium will be stocked with plenty of live display fish from the Chesapeake and Sequoia Hatcheries and fishery experts will be on hand to care for the fish and answer questions. Under supervision of M. K. Chapman, two uniformed agents will be on duty at the information booth at all times. A fly-tying booth will be a brand-new feature this year and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erdman will give demonstrations in the art of fly-tying. Another innovation this year will be a daily archery demonstration by Conservation Agent Paul Jeffries. All types of archery equipment will be on exhibition.

Crow Shooting Exhibit
An original crow-shooting exhibit, depicting the "who, what, when, where, why and how" of this fast-growing sport will be manned by Field Service Agents Richard Rotsch and Ray Wells, both veteran crow-hunters.

There will be an exhibit on farm - predator - damage control, with two expert trappers to dem-

The Forestry Division will demonstrate a miniature sawmill which will really operate and it is probable that the Conservation Commission will have its rainfall exhibit, which shows the effects of rain on burned and unburned forests aces. As usual, there will be a good assortment of game animals and birds. Many improvements have been made since last year in the Commission's buildings and grounds at the Fair.

What every party-line telephone user knows...

fore the war, when they could have had individual lines.

Every person with a party-line telephone at home knows at least three things about the service.

He knows the line must be shared fairly to be useful to everyone—just as a street is shared by those on it.

He knows he appreciates courtesy from others on the line—such as not interrupting, and recognizing his emergency needs for the line now and then.

He knows whether party-line service meets his needs. About half our customers have always preferred party-line service, even be-

Today, out of each four families with telephones, about three have party-line telephones and one of them has asked for a different type of service.

We'd like to be able to give it to them. We are working toward that, and are making some progress despite the continuing heavy demand for telephones from those still without any service.

We have on file thousands of requests for some other type of service. Wherever local conditions permit, we are meeting these requests, and are keeping a careful record of all requests, to act on at the first opportunity.

noon amid a setting of beautiful garden flowers of all kinds. Mrs. P. L. Strole of Sedalia Garden Club No. 5, one of the first presidents of the Dresden Homemakers Club, judged the exhibits of mixed bouquets, arrangements and single specimen giving placings of first, second and third. She also arranged several bouquets for the coffee table, dining table, fan shaped, one of gladioli, also one in all white. Her talk on selection and arrangement was very instructive. The club presented her with a small gift.

Several bouquets were sent to Mr. George Fichter, who has been ill, but who is much improved. Seventeen members and three guests were present. Plans were made for an ice cream social to be held at the community house, August 16. Pennies for friendship were taken up.

Mrs. J. P. Dunn and Mrs. F. L. Schenk were hostesses serving fruit punch and cookies. The meeting adjourned to meet at social, the evening of August 16 at community house.

LaMonte PTA Met in Park

The LaMonte Parent Teacher Association met at the LaMonte Park Wednesday evening, July 13. Mrs. Andy Berry, vice-president, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mr. Jerome Schenk. Mrs. Berry also gave a report on the lunch room. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Forbes were appointed as a committee to place lights in the park before the next meeting. Members present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gregory and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Berry and family, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Higgins, Bina and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Patton and Larry, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Files and children, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Adams and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lindaman and Jessie, Mrs. Eunice Scott and Miss Dora Angel.

Refreshments of watermelon and pie were served. The next meeting will be held at the LaMonte Park August 10. Cake and home made ice cream will be served. Each member is asked to bring table service.

Jailer and Wife Clean Up The County Jail, Serve Good Food

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Woolery, since taking over jailer and matron duties at the Pettus county jail last November, have eliminated all the unpleasant odors and insects that used to dwell there in the past, and have straightened it up the best they can with the present condition of the jail.

Right after election when they moved in, Mrs. Clark got the court's permission to wall paper and paint the inside of the living quarters. When this work was completed, the cell and jail quarters were cleaned, sprayed and now Mr. Woolery claims there isn't a bedbug or any other insect in the place.

The outside was cleaned up, and new signs were painted in the front. Visitors will not be in doubt as to where the jail is now, because a sign painted reads "County Jail."

Seems to Be Harmony

Prisoners seem to get along with Mr. Woolery and are satisfied with Mrs. Woolery's cooking. Their policy is "we are all human and should be treated alike, whether in jail or out."

Friday afternoon, a young man on vacation here from New York City, who asked that his name be withheld from the press, but would be willing to take an oath, if questioned, had this to say about the present condition of the jail following an inspection.

He said when he was a prisoner here in 1946 for breaking a parole from New York state, the food was rotten and he couldn't even take a bath because no soap was provided. He said there were bedbugs, cockroaches, and water dripped off the walls. The young man said he wouldn't mind living there at all now because it even smells clean.

The Fun Begins at your own Front Door

KNOW a nice cool spot where you'd like to be if it weren't quite so far away?

Got a wooded lake in mind, a sandy beach, a gorgeous mountaintop, where you'd love to be—if it weren't a long day's drive to get there?

Well, pick up your phone and get your reservations in!

For not far away is a Buick dealer with a gorgeous new beauty with Dynaflo Drive†—and what that does to vacation fun you're going to find hard to believe.

For Dynaflo makes the going as much fun as being there. Travel time is no longer "time out"—but part and parcel of your vacation.

And no wonder! Every mile is cushioned in the sweetness of smoothly flowing oil. Gearshifting is something you forget about—traffic a mere matter of manipulating the gas-treadle and brake.

Even back-seat passengers feel a brand-new comfort, free of jerk and jar and the harshness of direct gear drive.

So you end the day finding you've come farther—and feel fresher. Far from being just "another transmission," you find that Dynaflo is a whole new way of driving—a delightful way much too good to miss.

But—go see for yourself! That Buick dealer is ready to demonstrate—ready to make prompt delivery—ready to take your order this very day.
